Willowgrove Centre

Country paradise for city children

By JoAnn Thompson
MARKHAM — "A sleigh-ride through snowy fields, a picnic under a shade tree beside a meandering stream, or a relaxing fireside discussion can be a part of your experience at Willowgrove Centre."

The above description is included in a brochure explaining programs and facilities available at the 92-acre farm, on McCowan Road, north of 19th Avenue.

Willowgrove is a non-profit organization supported by the Mennonite Church. One of the programs offered is a day camp setting known as Glenbrook.

Miriam Witmer, director, has worked at Glenbrook for three years. She holds a BA degree in social work from a Mennonite church college in Virginia, and presently resides in Unionville.

Miriam says the focus of the camp program is to create a wholesome, non-competitive environment for children from kindergarten to grade 6.

The program runs from June 30 to August 29, and includes a variety of fun activities such as nature studies, swimming, lessons are provided, boating, pony rides, sports, crafts, wagon rides, and singing. Popular with the children is the barn, complete with loft, chickens, rabbits, calves, pigs, sheep, goats, and horses.

During the summer, Miriam says it's not unusual to have 300 children on site in one day. At this time, there are 60 staff members, usually University students, to supervise the visitors.

Facilities include a huge dining hall, pool, and barn. There are also tennis courts, which convert to a skating rink in the winter, nature trails, and a mature wood lot.

Special programs for the mentally retarded and children with learning disabilities are available, and given by qualified instructors in small classes.

A child can stay at the camp for as long as he or she wishes. Although many local people take advantage of the facility, many from Toronto also utilize the Centre.

Groups like the Girl

Guides and Scouts often use the camp, and there have even been wedding receptions held in a natural setting near the stream.

Cost is $47.50 per week if the child is picked up at a school, or $57.50 if home pick-up is requested. In the Stouffville area, children can meet the camp bus at Orchard Park and Summitview Public schools.

The number at the Scarborough Office for the Glenbrook Day Camp is 439-3104.

The fun of photography is available to everyone with today's inexpensive, easy-to-use cameras. A child's view of the world often results in refreshingly different pictures — especially when there's no worry about how the picture will turn out — with simple aim-and-shoot instant cameras like Polaroid's OneStep.

Anyone can be a photographer with today's simple cameras

Not everybody can drive a car, not everybody can fly a kite, but everybody can take photographs. If you have any doubt, ask the family dog — he'll tell you he's chased a cat so dad could get a picture and posed with junior so mom could take shots to send them to grandma.

It won't be long before Rover decides he's equally adept on the other side of the lens. Don't think we're being funny. If St. Bernards can go around with keys under their chins, who's to stop them from carrying cameras?

Why, those new Polaroid cameras are practically there — they focus themselves by sending out echoing sound waves. Now if we could just train Rover to put his paw on the shutter button...

Today, photography has become so simple, so easy, that it's the world's leading spectator — and participant — sport, although some still insist on calling it a hobby. Now a camera is as much a necessity as a car.

In fact, the camera has had more of an impact on the world than the automobile. You could always walk or take a bus, but how would you know a pyramid without a picture? Can you imagine a newspaper, magazine or textbook without pictures? How would you like looking at a TV screen that was all subtitles? Photography is so pervasive that we're hardly aware it's there.

If you've been putting off getting into the picture business — or haven't exercised your creative talents photographically in a while, now's the time. Photography has been called the only true mass art form of the twentieth century. And you don't want to miss out before the century ends. Future columns will let you in on some trade secrets of better pictures, announce the latest developments in the field and, we hope, encourage you to take better pictures.
