

Council can't decide

Fire wagon or truck?

STOUFFVILLE Town Fire Chief Walt Smith will have to wait awhile before he finds out if he's going to be rushing to area fires in a station wagon, or a half ton truck.

Last week at a meeting of Town Council, a request was considered from Chief Smith for the issuing of tenders for the wagon.

Councillor Jim Doble, however, said he felt council should consider a truck, instead. The latter was "more practical," and had "most of the extras" found on the other vehicle.

Councillor Bill Kamps wondered if the truck could accommodate a stretcher.

Doble said that it could be arranged to carry as many as four. The truck was also $2,000 less than the quote he had been given on the wagon.

On a recommendation by Mayor Eldred King, council agreed to set up a meeting with the fire chief to discuss the matter.

NEW FLAG

Council officially accepted its new flag last week, but the old one will not be entirely forgotten.

So that future generations might take some notice of the fact, council agreed to sign the latter, "fold it and put it away."

"Would you rather have it folded?" asked Mayor King.

"Rather than than stuffed," replied Councillor Kamps.
