Words omitted

Dear Editor:
Thank you for printing the letter I brought into you. I was disturbed, however, to find the unfriendly "Editor" salutation instead of the "Dear Mr. Thomas" I had used. Also, the second paragraph did not make sense to me until I went to my carbon copy and found that words had been left out. It should have read: "As a matter of fact, the impression I got on reading it (the account of the band concert at S.D.S.S.), was that a different philosophy from Ted's was being expressed in this year's concert". This was obviously not the case as explained in the rest of the letter, but the words must be added to make sense in context.

Sincerely,
Lenore Hawley,
Stouffville.
