

PLOWMEN TRAVEL STRAIGHT LINE

Horse plowmanship still has its place at branch and international matches although their numbers are small. Prominent in both areas of competition including North York's event, Saturday near Keswick was Anthony Featherstone, formerly of Altona and now of Steeles Avenue, RR 1, Milliken.

A champion watches a champion. Eric Timbers (left), Canada's junior title-holder and second in the Canadian senior competition, watches his father, Carl Timbers, RR 4, Stouffville, in action, Saturday. Eric will represent Canada in the World Match in Ireland next year. Carl was also a world competitor in Finland and placed second.

Eighteen year old Kevin Grose, RR 3, Stouffville, participated in two classes at the North York match, Saturday. Here, he finishes a land in the category for boys and girls, 23 and under.

Ernest 'Sandy' Davis, RR 4, Stouffville, tried his hand with a single furrow horse plow, minus the horses. His performance was good enough for a third place finish behind Arthur Mitchell and Morris Snodden.

Mark Grove, formerly of Stouffville and now of Balleboro, near Peterborough, attended Saturday's match and placed first in Class 10, boys and girls 17 years and under.

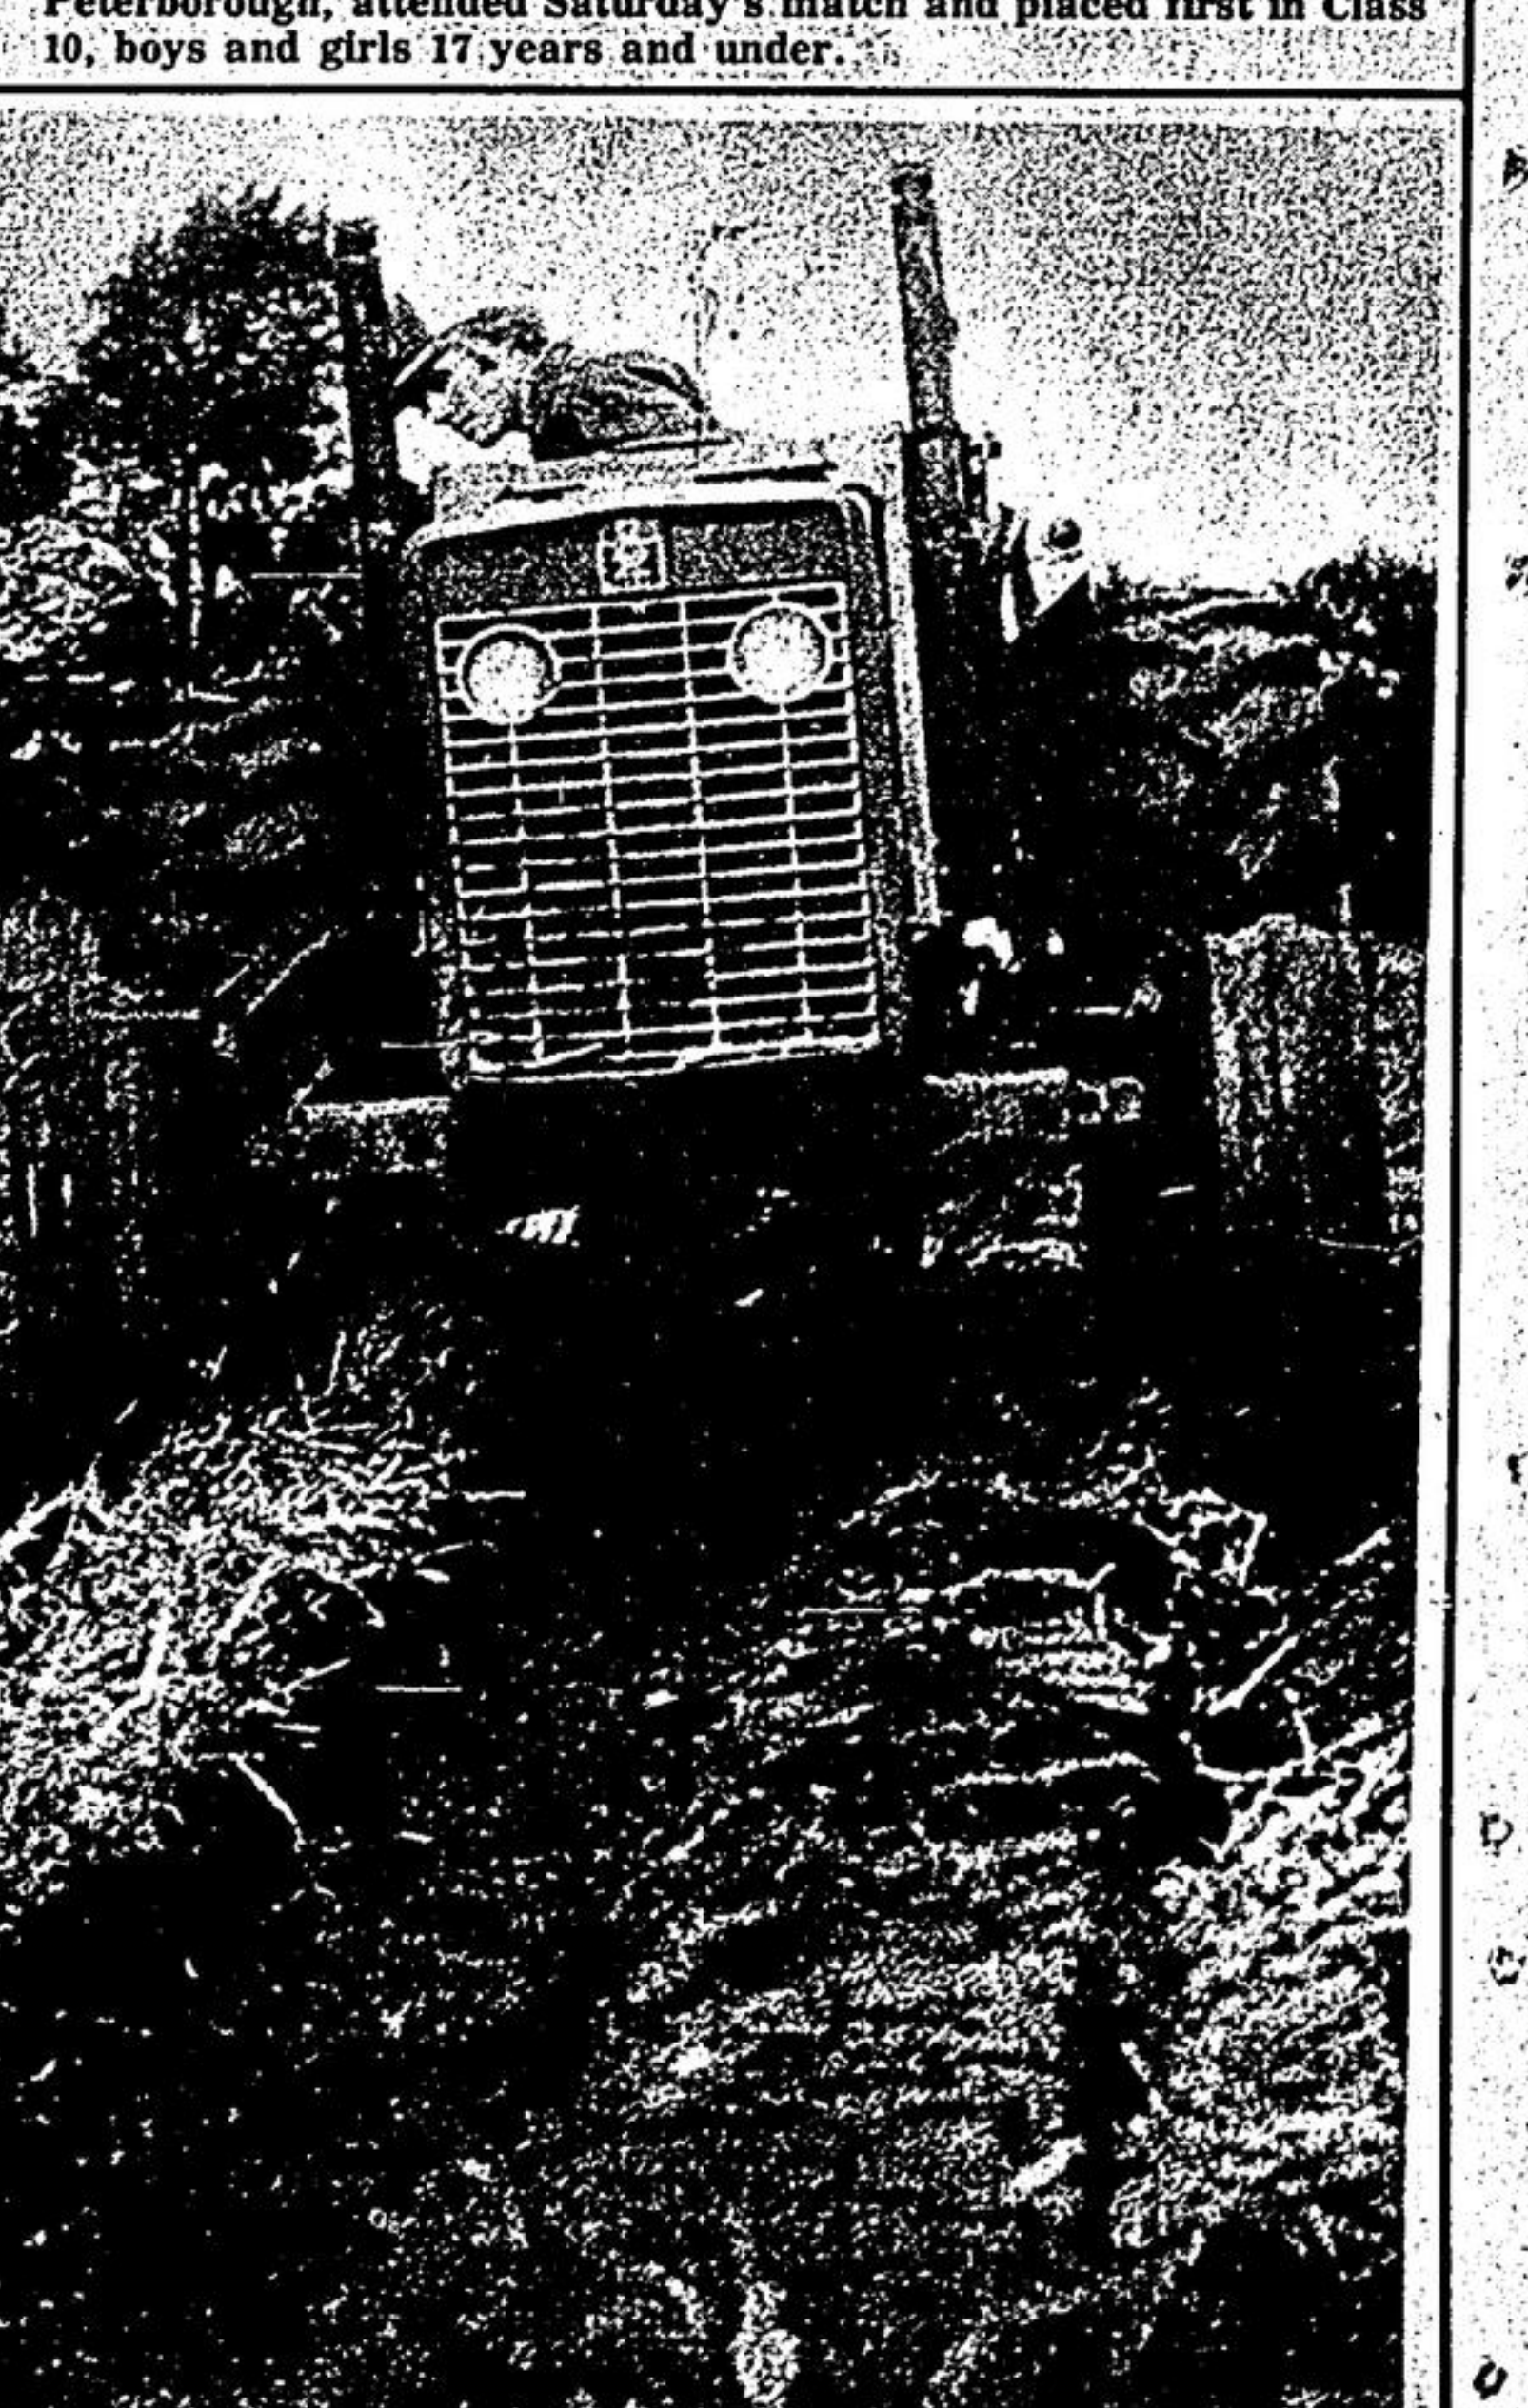

Like father, like son. Ivan DeGeer (left) and son Brian (right), of RR 3, Mount Albert, are both professional plowmen. Here, they engage in a discussion during Saturday's match. Both expect to participate in the International near Woodstock this week.

Eric Timbers, RR 4, Stouffville, makes some adjustments to his plow during Saturday's competition near Keswick. Eric won Class 9 at the match and the Bank of Nova Scotia Trophy.

Jan King (seated) had plenty of help in making last-minute plow adjustments. His advisors are brother Rod King (left) and Kevin Wells. Jan placed third in Class 3, boys and girls 18 and under.

Rod King, RR 4, Stouffville, watches closely while making the last roundup in Class 9. Rod and Jan are the sons of Eldred King, Mayor of Whitchurch-Stouffville.
