

Altona W.I. aid boy's recovery

Back in December, 1977, Stephen Klau was seriously injured in a two-car collision that took the life of his mother. The road back to recovery has been slow but the former Altona family hasn't been forgotten. Last week, the Altona Women's Institute presented

A devoted wife-mother

DICKSON'S HILL — On Saturday, Nov. 15, Mrs. John D. Grove, a devoted wife and mother, passed away following six weeks in Scarborough Centenary Hospital. She was 75.

Mrs. Grove, the former Ada Hoover, was the daughter of Joseph and Annie Hoover and the last surviving member of that family. Following her marriage, Feb. 22, 1928, she and her husband took up residence on property west of No. 48, north of Dickson's Hill. They lived for a time in a house at the rear of the farm, then moved to a home closer to the highway.

Mrs. Grove was a member of the congregation at Wideman Mennonite Church where the funeral was held Tuesday at 2 p.m. Rev. Paul Martin was in charge.

Surviving besides her husband are three sons, Paul and Lorne, R.R. 2, Markham; Joseph at R.R. 1, Elmwood; two daughters, Frances at Cambridge and Ruth, R.R. 2, Markham; six grandchildren, Deborah (Mrs. Steve McCombie), Stephen, Phillip and Mark; Rachael and Kinu; and a great-grandson, Matthew McCombie. Interment was made at Wideman Cemetery.

Model Parents Child reacts to politeness

Nothing is more annoying than a rude, whining child. None of us want OUR children to behave this way. We want them to be pleasant, polite people, the kind our friends enjoy having around. Partly for their sakes; but mostly, if we're honest, for our own. We want to hear: "What a delightful child!" The implication being — "you must be a very good parent."

How do you convince a child that politeness is an appropriate and worthwhile kind of behavior? The best way we know of is to give children good behavioral models. The child that is treated with courtesy and consideration, will be more apt to treat others the same way. For example: If he is outside playing, instead of saying, "I want you in here now," try saying, "Johnny, dinner will be ready in five minutes, to be followed by five minutes; John." Or if she is watching television, say, "Mary, would you help me during the next commercial, please?" or "at the end of the program."

This approach is not only polite, but takes into consideration the child's need as well as your own. The child that is treated with courtesy and thoughtfulness, will likely treat others the same way. —The Children's Marketplace.

Late Frances Rattee

Touched the lives of many people

STOFFVILLE — "A great woman of faith and prayer who touched lives wherever she went."

Such a tribute was paid to Frances Elizabeth Rattee before and following her passing, Friday, Nov. 7 in Scarborough Centenary Hospital.

Mrs. Rattee, 84, had been a resident of Parkview Home, Stouffville, since 1971, coming here from Cornwall, Ont. Although bothered by arthritis, she refused to allow this problem to restrict her activities. She attended church regularly and maintained close connections with a wide circle of friends.

Mrs. Rattee, the former Frances Kinnear, was born near Richmond, Quebec, the daughter of Rev. George F. and Elizabeth Kinnear. Immediately following her marriage, she and her husband, Rev. Neil M. Rattee, left for British Guyana to serve in the mission field there. He also held pastoral charges at Martintown, Ont., near Cornwall, Yarmouth, Nova Scotia and Westville, Nova Scotia. Mrs. Rattee predeceased his wife in 1949.

In 1961, Mrs. Rattee returned to British Guyana. Due to the Georgetown riots about that time, her stay in that land was shorter than anticipated.

In earlier years, she had served as a teacher on the staff of Seaway Bible Institute at Cornwall and later, at Parkview, was an active participant in the Ladies' Prayer Group there. Her positive outlook on all aspects of life gained her much admiration and respect.

Mrs. Rattee was involved in Jim Rehill's senior citizens' program out of the High School but her interests extended beyond this. She always held Mr. Rehill in high esteem because of his influence on the students he coached. She was a keen supporter of the volleyball and basketball teams at S.D.S.S.

Her feelings towards Parkview, the residents and staff, was the same. She enjoyed her stay there. Mrs. Rattee is survived by one daughter, Lois (Mrs. Herbert Lafleur), R.R. 4, Stouffville; two sons, Edward of Brampton and John at Waterloo; one sister, Agnes Myers of Keswick near Fredericton, New Brunswick and ten grandchildren. A son, Neil, was killed in action with the R.C.A.F. overseas.

Rev. James Randle conducted the funeral service from the O'Neill Chapel, Stouffville, Nov. 10, assisted by Rev. William Vanderbent, Mr. Douglas Tiffin and Rev. Sidney Montpetit. Interment was made at Pictou, Nova Scotia.

United Way

Extend canvass

YORK REGION — It was announced today that the United Way of York Region residential fundraising campaign would be extended to November 26.

Michael Burns, campaign chairman, said that the industrial campaign, aimed at local companies and their employees, was an unqualified success.

However, there have been several delays in the printing and distribution of the household mailer to York Region residents and this has made it necessary to extend this portion of the campaign in order to allow them to make their contributions. The mailer will be distributed to all homes in the region during the last weeks of November and residents are requested to send in their donations in the self-addressed postage-paid return envelope.

To date overall contributions are 27 per cent greater than last year and total $148,197.

Stihl Chain Saws are WORTH THE MONEY

How many chain saws do you plan to buy in the next 10 or 20 years? It takes a company like Stihl, the world's first power chain saw manufacturer and still the largest, to build the saw with the features you want.

If you want a saw that is:

- AS SAFE as possible
- FAST cutting & powerful
- SMOOTH & QUIET
- EASY to run
- Inexpensive to operate
- A pleasure to own year after year, then you want a Stihl!

Chain saws are dangerous anyway. So you better want a saw that is as safe as possible.

Consider smoothness — important not only for comfort but safety. If you hold a saw that is vibrating then your fingers may become so numb that you can't let go of the trigger!

Stihl uses its rigorous engineering and its incredibly precise machining to give you a super balanced, low vibration, high speed, high performance engine. To this Stihl, drawing on its years of experience, adds a rubber buffer antivibration system, which Stihl developed 10 years ago to prevent "white finger disease".

Other Stihl safety features include quickstop, throttle interlock, front and rear handguards, and a chain catching bolt. This bolt under the sprocket cover catches a thrown off chain and guides it inside the cover.

Professionals want performance so pros usually buy Stihl. Stihl performance features include high R.P.M., for lightweight, big power, large, efficient, quiet muffler, easy access to routine service points, "heat dam" between carburetor and cylinder to eliminate vapor lock and flat sprocket cover, to allow closer, easier limbing. And more, like adjustable automatic oiler, and little things like balanced fuel and oil tanks, so you won't run out of oil before you run out of gas. Professionals want long life and low overall cost. Government bodies, arborists, rental shops, and construction companies usually buy Stihl.

We have models for the do-it-yourself — home owner, to the cottage or wood lot owner, to the 12 hour a day professional.

And you know — they're not that expensive, they're not twice as much as other saws. And over the years, much less!

So if you'd rather not replace your saw often then buy a saw with a reputation to last a long time, one you'll be comfortable with, and one you won't outgrow.

If you want your saw to work hard, fast and easy then you want your saw to be a Stihl.
