

Hope for Seneca campus here

STOUFFVILLE — Proposals to establish separate campuses of Seneca College in both Whitchurch-Stouffville and the Town of Markham, will be presented to the board of governors Nov. 24.

Making the presentations will be Kent Garrett, director, and Brian Adamson, dean of continuing education at Seneca.

Garrett told The Tribune they would be proposing that the board rent 5,000 square feet of the main floor, and another 2,000 square feet downstairs of the former Villa Italian Bakery

Ltd., 67 Edward Street. The bakery went into receivership and was sold by public auction this fall.

Should the board turn down the Villa proposal, a back room in Jake's Jeans, Main Street East, would be suggested as an alternative, Garrett said.

He said a similar proposal for Markham, with rented space in a store in the Main St. plaza, would be made. The alternative would be for the board to apply to be the main tenant of the Centennial Library, which is moving in June.

Garrett said the board had felt it had developed "solid bases at Finch, Sheppard and King Township, and that it was time to move out to other areas."

A survey he had made of the area of 200 people, since being hired as director for Markham-Stouffville, had shown a desire for the campuses, he said.

The Stouffville facility would offer courses in such things as business communications, computer study, early childhood education, journalism, and others, Garrett said.

4-H Clubs will display skills

DURHAM REGION: Thirty 4-H Homemaking Clubs recently completed their fall projects entitled "Your Corner of the World." The course focused on interior decorating as it relates to the bedroom. A highlight was the craft of macrame. Articles ranged from wall-hangings to lampshades.

Many of these will be on display at forthcoming Achievement Days, Saturday, Nov. 22 at Uxbridge Secondary School (Ontario Centre) and Thursday, Nov. 27 at St. Bernadette's Parish Centre, 21 Bayley Street, Ajax (Ontario South).

The following will receive diplomas: ONTARIO CENTRE — Charlena Davis, Third Avenue, Uxbridge (Advanced Honors); Donna Kerry, R.R.1, Port Perry (Provincial Honors); Kathy Chandler, R.R. 3, Port Perry (Provincial Honors); Leanne Doupe, Port Perry (Provincial Honors); Arlene Stearman, Uxbridge (County Honors); Cheryl Jons, R.R. 1, Port Perry (County Honors); Sandra Anand, R.R. 2, Uxbridge (County Honors); Colleen Carnochan, Prince Albert (County Honors); Heather McDougall, Prince Albert (County Honors); Leeann Moore, Sandford (County Honors) and Anna Harrison, R.R. 2, Uxbridge (County Honors).

ONTARIO SOUTH — Janice Shaw, R.R. 1, Ashburn (Provincial Honors); Lynn Jamieson, R.R. 1, Ashburn (Provincial Honors); Cindy Fiss, R.R. 1, Ashburn (Provincial Honors); Nicole

Hale, Greenwood (County Honors); Sharyn Fiss, R.R.1, Ashburn (County Honors); Barbara Jamieson, R.R. 1, Ashburn (County Honors); Linda Jones, R.R. 1, Ashburn (County Honors); Gabe Cassano, Oshawa (County Honors); Doris Fice, Oshawa (County Honors); Marion Fice, Oshawa (County Honors); Mina Ashmore, Oshawa (County Honors).

ONTARIO NORTH — Wilma Van Boxtal, Beaverton (Provincial Honors); Anne Malcolm, R.R. 2, Cannington (Provincial Honors); Gay Black, R.R. 1, Cannington, (Provincial Honors); Anne Tully, Cannington (Provincial Honors) and Teresa McMillan, R.R. 4, Sunderland (County Honors).

Late Clifford Harper

Death shocks area

UXBRIDGE TWP. — It's how he would have wanted it, a family relative told The Tribune in describing the sudden death of Clifford Harper, Saturday night.

Mr. Harper, 48, passed away in his sleep, the result of an apparent heart attack. He had undergone open-heart surgery, five years ago.

Cliff was well-known in the area. This was due in part to the operation of a successful meat market at the Stouffville Sales Barn every Saturday. Customers came to know him not only as a congenial businessman but a close friend.

Before moving to RR 1, Goodwood, Cliff and his wife, the former Doreen McKee, resided on Market Street in Stouffville. Leaving that community failed to separate him from the people he had come to know through the years.

There are four in the family, one daughter, Debbie (Mrs. Sam Maye), RR 2, Stouffville; three sons, Brian in Stouffville, Gordon and Steven at home, and two grandchildren, Tracy and Jason Maye. His mother, Flossie Wagg, lives on Harold Street, Stouffville.

There are five brothers, Ken, Jim and Jack in Stouffville, Harold of Claremont and Don in Goodwood and six sisters, Betty Ferguson, Evelyn Machesney and Donna Cabell all of Goodwood; Barbara Malcolm and Linda Harper in Stouffville.

Rev. Clifford Pendlebury of Goodwood United Church conducted the funeral service, Tuesday morning from the O'Neill Chapel, Stouffville. Hundreds called at the chapel to pay their respects.

Mother preferred home to hospital

Marcia Rosenburgh, R. R. 1, Goodwood holds Meghan, the couple's pretty daughter, born at home, Nov. 7. It was Marcia's desire to have the baby in the quiet of their own residence rather than the hospital and if she had it to do over again, she'd want it exactly the same.

Home birth was so easy says Goodwood mother

GOODWOOD — Marcia Rosenburgh, RR 1, Goodwood, has repudiated that modern-day custom of having babies in hospitals.

Daughter Meghan was born at home, an arrival so free of stress and strain, the young mother was up doing menial household chores the very same day.

"I wanted it to be as natural a birth as possible," said Marcia—for several reasons. First, she didn't want to be separated from their first child, 22 month old Lara. Second, she wished for a more relaxed atmosphere, far removed from the hustle and bustle of hospital routine. And third, she wished for the permanent 'bonding' that takes place when mother and baby are together at all times.

As predicted, everything turned out perfectly. "I still can't believe it," she said in an interview, Saturday.

Marcia admits that, at the outset, there were problems to overcome. Initially, she had to convince husband Stephen that all would be well. Then she had to find a physician who'd come immediately when called. And lastly, she had to make sure everything was in readiness should advance warnings be brief.

Lucky she did, for Meghan arrived at 7:55 a.m., Nov. 7, and the doctor came twenty-five minutes later. But Marcia was in good hands with an experienced mid-wife at her side and her husband close by.

Marcia's the first to admit there's an element of risk involved. She points out, however, that in Europe, between 50 and 75 per cent of all births take place in homes.

"Some look on it as a major operation, but really it's not," said Stephen. For him, at least, it wasn't the 'operation' he experienced when Lara was born. She arrived in the ambulance, about five minutes short of the delivery room at Uxbridge Cottage Hospital. "Actually, I helped more that time than this," he said.

Marcia praised the assistance provided by mid-wife Theo Dawson of Locust Hill and the pre-natal advice offered by Dr. Carman Price of Pickering.

Would she do it this way again? "Yes," says Marcia, "it's all so totally different, it's incredible."

'On tap' service could be costly

DURHAM REGION — Residents of Durham Region, drawing water out of drilled and dug wells, should be so lucky. Their suburban neighbors, with the service 'on tap', may soon be paying much higher rates.

If a 20 per cent hike is approved for water and sewer costs, the figure could climb from $141 this year to $168 next.

The anticipated increase is based on several things—a loss of major industries in the Region; a decrease in development levies and an 80 per cent hike in the rate the province charges Durham for hooking into the York-Durham sewer system.

Uxbridge Mayor Gary Herrema, chairman of the regional works committee, is far from pleased with the proposed rate structure with respect to "the big pipe" as it's called.

"I think we are subsidizing the far-away places in York," he said. "This would be fine if we were part of the same region, but we're not."

Mayor Herrema feels York should pay more than Durham because the plant is located in the Town of Pickering and the cost of laying the pipe is greater.

Neil Allin

Top Jr. Farmer

DURHAM REGION: A would-be veterinarian who later changed his mind, has been named Outstanding Junior Farmer in Ontario. Neil Allin, 30, operator of a 310 acre farm near Orono, came close to not being a farmer at all.

A native of Newcastle, he enrolled in a veterinary course at the University of Guelph following graduation from high school. While he fully intended to follow up this profession, the love of farm life was too strong. He took over the family property at age 21 and has remained there ever since. He raises dairy cattle, ducks and corn.

The coveted award represents Neil's many areas of agricultural endeavors. He's a past-chairman of the County Milk Committee; secretary of the Durham Farmers Co-operative; executive secretary of Durham Region Federation of Agriculture; a director of the Durham Region Soil and Crop Improvement Association; a director of the Durham Region Holstein Club and a 4-H Club leader.

He recently returned from an expense-paid trip to Western Canada, spending a week in the Calgary area.

Day care?

STOUFFVILLE — Is there a need for Daycare in Whitchurch-Stouffville?

If so, the York Region Y.M.C.A., in co-operation with the Stouffville Family Life Centre, is prepared to provide it.

The program is called First Base and is designed for "the total well-being of the child".

Qualified staff will supervise the children and provide them with a choice of activities. The fee, established to cover program expenses, is tax deductible.

Questionnaires have been sent home with pupils from both Summitview and Orchard Park Schools. Parents interested in such a project are asked to fill out the forms and return them by this Friday, Nov. 21. If additional information is required, the numbers to call are 640-1102 (Summitview); 640-3552 (Orchard Park) or the Y.M.C.A. (Bonnie McLeod) at 884-4811.

Seminar on Drugs — The Stouffville Family Life Centre is moving ahead with plans to hold a seminar on drug use and abuse. The exact date, while still not established, will be some time in January. It will be held in the evening at Stouffville Dist. Secondary School.

Form Singles Club — Schools in Stouffville are centres for activities involving teenage young people. At the other end of the age scale, seniors can find enjoyment through involvement in events at the Silver Jubilee Club, the Good Fellowship Club and other organizations. But what about the Singles in between? In an effort to bridge this gap, Joanne Payne, a volunteer with the Family Life Centre, is anxious to organize a Singles' Club in town. Persons interested in such an association, are asked to call the Centre (Tuesdays only) at 640-2123.

Stole wire

STOUFFVILLE — A 20 year old man, charged with theft of copper wire from a C.N.R. telecommunication site, entered a plea of guilty to the offense when he appeared in Newmarket Court last week.

According to evidence, Floyd Bateman loaded about $300 worth of wire into a truck, parked on the 9th Concession of Whitchurch-Stouffville. His actions didn't go unnoticed, however. A witness jotted down the vehicle's licence number and called York Regional Police.

Bateman is out on $500 bail pending sentence.

Students honored

Beverly Barlow (left) and Sandra Burns, both 18, were joint recipients of The Brougham Citizens' League Award at Pickering High School's annual Commencement Exercises, Nov. 7. The two girls are close friends and live at Bay Ridges.
