

"Girls Next Door" Being a twin is double fun

GORMLEY — Being a twin — an identical twin, sometimes creates problems, but not for Helen and Monica Bartolic, R.R. 4, Stouffville. If anything, it's an advantage. They're our "Girls Next Door".

For example, they can switch clothes, switch classes, even switch conversations and no one (except close friends) knows the difference.

Helen and Monica share many of the same interests and it would seem this practise will continue. On June 24, they'll graduate together from St. Robert's High School, Thornhill and in September, begin courses at the University of Guelph.

Born in Toronto, they resided for a time on Conc. 9, Markham, then moved with their parents to the Stouffville-Gormley Road. A younger sister (just as pretty) is a Grade 8 student at St. Mark's, Stouffville. An older sister, Cathy, has completed her third year at Guelph University.

Shared interests as well as age are sources of visual joy. They talk about the day they changed places in class (on a dare), and the teacher never suspected a thing. The dare, by the way, was suggested by another teacher. On occasions, they'll switch with one another on the telephone without the caller realizing what's happened.

They've yet to change roles on a date, however, agreeing that might be going too far.

Both enjoy part-time jobs at Jim White's Florist, a short distance from home. The family attends at St. Patrick's Church, Markham.

Hiking and camping are favorite recreations. This summer they're planning a trip together into New York State.

Helen and Monica voice strong support for the teaching staff at St. Robert's and the academic program there. Both were active in sports with Monica serving on the Athletic Association two years.

While identical (in personalities as well as appearance), Helen holds one slight advantage. She arrived first — by ten minutes. "And she never lets me forget it," says Monica.

Helen (left) and Monica Bartolic, 18, of R.R. 4, Stouffville, are identical twins. They enjoy many of the same things including camping and hiking. On June 24, they'll graduate from St. Robert's High School, Thornhill and in the fall begin studies at the University of Guelph. Both work part-time at James White Florist next door.
