Win is surprise

DURHAM REGION — When The Tribune called top Ontario Scholar, Steven Dulhanty, 19, to congratulate him on his success, he was out playing golf.

However, it wouldn't have made much difference if he had been in, because, according to his father, R.S. Dulhanty, he didn't know, anyway, that he had led the rest of his Pickering High School mates.

Dulhanty Sr., thinks he would have been elated, but not necessarily overcome by the news; after all, the year before, his sister, Anne, another Ontario Scholar, was second in her group. She is now studying biology and physics at University of Toronto.

Mr. Dulhanty, said that his son, whose average was 93 per cent, had always done well in school. Mathematics is his best subject, he said, and, "occasionally," he had registered 100 per cent.

He said that Steven attended Holy Redeemer School first, and, while at Pickering High, had played rugby, soccer and football. He was also vice-president of the students' council, last year.

"He's a good guy," he said of the young winner, who plans to study engineering at Waterloo University.

Next year, he may have to make another accolade in that department; a third child, Sheila, starts grade 13 this fall.

BERNETTE WIERENGA

Buys steamer

GOODWOOD — For years, Ernie Carruthers, formerly of Atha, has wanted to own a steam engine. However, serviceable ones are hard to find and prices are exorbitant. But he never stopped looking and his search has finally paid off. He purchased one from Jim Carney at Milton, a gentleman he describes as, "a real good head".

The steamer, known as a Robert Bell, was made in Seaford, Ont. Ernie hopes to enter it in "History in Action Day" at Brougham and "Heritage Day" at Markham. Mac Middleton, an authority on steam engines in this area, will be giving Ernie a few "pointers" on its operation.

Mr Carruthers said the asking price on a steam engine today can go as high as $10,000,

"a lot for an antique to play with."

Ernie "fired up" his steamer for a first time, Thursday, and everything went smoothly. He had it brought down from Milton to Goodwood by Emmerson Transport of Stouffville.

CLAREMONT — Is grade 13 necessary?

It's an age-old question and one that will probably never be answered to everyone's satisfaction, but it's one that never seems to be out of the news.

Right now, a group of parents in Durham Region, is convinced that the extra year of high school - Ontario is the only province with it — is absolutely necessary to the over-all well-being of students. And to that purpose, they have asked education minister, Bette Stephenson, to keep it in.

Says Sandra Malachowski, co-chairman of the Parents Advisory Council of O'Neill Collegiate, Oshawa, in a letter to the minister: "A child grows up fast enough in this world without rushing... into another walk of life without that extra year of maturity."

Not so, says Claremont Trustee, Linda Carder. "I don't think that's a valid point. You're not going to tell me other students (outside of Ontario) are deprived of a proper education; that Ontario students are the only ones to get a good one?"

Mrs. Malachowski said, also, students would miss too many basic subjects without grade 13. Students entered in university mathematics programs, would not have such subjects as calculus if they missed grade 13.

Mrs. Carder, however, feels a condensed program could be made to fit in these extras, if high schools just went to grade 12. The question there would be whether some students would drop out as a result, she said.

Trustee Carder said that students planning to go to university, are told by grade 10 what subjects they will need to gain entry, and plan accordingly. However, those changing their minds later on, can pick up the subjects they need via night school or summer school programs in the Region.

"Right now, many unemployed students are taking advantage of the courses to pick up extra credits," she said. Grade 13 only means that taxpayers pick up the cost at the local and provincial level, whereas university costs are private, she said.

Trustee Carder said dropping grade 13, would also mean that university would now go to four years from the present three.
