Farmers - unite!

YORK REGION — Farmers of the world unite. These words spoken at the annual meeting of the York County Federation of Agriculture, represented the message from guest speaker, Del O'Brien, provincial Ministry of Agriculture representative, Al Wall, and various committee heads within the York group.

Discussing the small return a farmer obtains from the market place for the amount of work he does, O'Brien, a Pembroke farmer and lawyer, said: "It's so hard to understand a farmer's reluctance to join a collective. That's one of the ABCs. 'There's no equity between a lion and a mouse,' he told his listeners. 'One farmer at a time, is not going to stand in the market place.'"

O'Brien said there had to be a "countervailing force, and that is organized labor. Maybe it's gone too far, but it's played its role in getting a fair return."

"You live like paupers; you're all just stewards and you pass it on," O'Brien said.

He urged the members to work together and to take advantage of the collective opportunities open to them in the management of their farms.

Alan Wall listed the weather and economics as the main problems facing the farmer, and said that "one of the weak links has been in farm owners knowing where they're at at any given time; to take advantage of the Ontario Farm Adjustment Program to operate their business."

He said that farmers needed "accurate net worth statements and inventory listings. It takes a joint effort to strengthen farm management operations." Wall ended.

Outgoing president, Harold Lapp, told the meeting that lack of "communication" between board directors and members, was a "problem," while public relations director, Tom Perkes, said that, "a net decrease in membership is often indicative of a bigger problem."

He said members had to "get back to basics," remembering how they had worked together to build the organization.

"We won't get there unless there is more member involvement," he said.

Barton Johnson, head of the membership committee, also stressed the need for new people. "The members must know the federation is a benefit to them," he said.
