

Coach of the week

For many years The Tribune has accented the achievements of the Town's hockey players and teams, with hardly ever a thought given to the unsung heroes of minor hockey — the coaches. No, not the one's in the upper echelons of All-star hockey — they get their fair share of glory — but the guys who come out every Saturday morning, rain or shine, to give your kids hours of enjoyment that are a topic of conversation for the whole week to come. In salute to these gentlemen of the "early morning ice" The Tribune intends to run a "Coach-of-the-Week" series.

Our first two subjects need little introduction as they are two of the longest serving coaches. Larry Grove and Eric Blundon are well known figures in the minor hockey association. Both have been coaching together for the last five years, serving two years in both Novice and Atom divisions. This is their first year in Pee-wee.

Eric and Larry are both married and have sons playing on their current team, Stouffville Co-op. Larry's son, Michael, plays at left-wing, and Eric's son, Robert, at centre; both do exactly as the coach tells them — no family favoritism here.

When you consider that neither of these guys have ever had ambitions to being hockey stars, it makes their dedication even more laudable. Thanks guys!

Nearly 130 Victoria Square residents turned out for a dinner and presentation night earlier this month to honor Jim Barker's twenty years of service and dedication to local ball players. In addition to a handsomely inscribed plaque from the Town of Markham, presented by Mayor Tony Roman, Jim received a gold watch and wallet plus a sum of money from his grateful admirers. He also received a big kiss and thank you from one of Victoria Square's senior residents, Mabel Anderson.

Midget profiles

Midget player-of-the-week is left-winger Mike Feasby. Mike is 15 years old and has played 8 years in all-star hockey. He was also a member of last year's All Ontario championship winning Bantam team.

A grade 10 student of Stouffville High, he is also involved in volleyball and baseball, and has the rare ability of being able to deliver a wrist-shot, a rarity in minor hockey today.

Mike started playing hockey when he was 5 years old and is quite a polished player. His current front line partners on the Midget team are Mike Anderson and Kenny Burrows.

Club skaters place well

Stouffville skating club members did well at a recent 100 entry tournament at Keswick, picking up three spots in the first ten places in their various categories.

Maureen Ferguson came 3rd in the Silver Ladies; Nicole Vauter came 6th in the Senior Bronze, and Susie Anderson was 7th in the Preliminary Ladies.

Lakes Cup

The Oldtimer Clippers will travel to London, Ont., next weekend to take part in the Labatt's Great Lakes Cup tournament.
