

Editor's Mail Cruelty

Dear Editor: Through your newspaper, I wish to compliment Art Briggs-Jude on his column "To kill often makes sense", published in the Dec. 1 issue. It revealed "the other side" as no other article ever has. It was so convincing, it almost made me a believer, but not quite. I can never condone the destruction of wildlife for any purpose other than infection by disease.

There was one point made by the writer, however, for which I take exception. He states, "these water-dwelling mammals are actually killed in from two to twelve minutes". Mr Briggs-Jude seems to feel this kind of "instantaneous" death is humane.

I disagree. Two to twelve minutes must undoubtedly seem like two to twelve hours for the trapped muskrat or beaver. Thinking of this in human terms, puts it in proper perspective. How would YOU feel?

Sincerely,
Agnes Bevin,

Santa's Workshop proves popular

More than 100 boys and girls, ranging in age from six to twelve, attended a Santa's Workshop in Latham Hall, Friday. The program, authorized by the Town's Parks and Recreation Board, was led by two Seneca College students, Kathy Wilkins and Janet Smith plus several volunteers. Pictured here with her completed Christmas tree ornament is Karen Andrews (left), of Ninth Line North. With Karen is workshop helper, Lori Irving, North Street, Stouffville.
