STOUFFVILLE
— Are Roman Catholics Christians?

According to some individual or individuals, they aren't, and they're distributing pamphlets to back up their beliefs.

The trouble is, they're using Marie Adams' Christian Supply Center, 79 Main St. East, to solicit their propaganda.

Mrs. Adams told The Tribune she became aware of it last week when a customer, who had earlier bought a book from the Roman Catholic section of the store, returned with a 24-page, neatly-printed, well-laid-out tract: "Are Roman Catholics Christians?" which she said she found inserted in her book.

A quick check by Mrs. Adams of other printed matter in that section, turned up several more of the five by two-and-three-quarter-inch pamphlets.

She told The Tribune she hopes she's now rid of the unwanted tracts.

CGIT graduation

On Sunday, April 1, the annual York Presbytery C.G.I.T. and Explorers' graduation service was held in Stouffville United Church. One of the participants was Shirley Price of Stouffville, President of C.G.I.T. Ontario. The guest speaker was Mavis Brodie, the Executive Secretary. Nine of the graduates are shown

On trial

YORK REGION — Two Markham teenagers, in Newmarket Provincial Court recently, charged with break, entry and theft, have been committed for trial by Judge and jury.

Robert W. Layton, 18, R.R.1 Markham and Adam F. Petrie, 19, Markham, are charged with entering the premises of W.D. Stewart Auto Body at Box Grove last July.

Both youths, through their counsel, waived the hearing of evidence at the preliminary hearing held before Provincial Judge R. G. Pearse.

The pair will appear in County Court, Sept. 14 to set a date for trial.
