Around Town

GUEST SPEAKER
Rev. Ted Green of Stouffville was the guest speaker at a symposium related to environmental problems held May 13 and 14 at York University, Toronto. His address was described as "excellent" by Fran Sainsbury, one of several Whitchurch-Stouffville residents in attendance. Mrs Sainsbury also commended Fran Sutton of Stouffville on the content of her remarks. The seminar was entitled "Not In My Backyard" and dealt primarily with problems in locating areas suitable as waste disposal sites. Rev. Green spoke of the fear of "the unknown" and the tendency by government to dismiss or ignore such areas of concern that too often have a devastating effect on communities. His address received much favorable comment from an audience that included many government representatives.

A GHOST STORY
When former hockey men get together, the stories they tell would fill a huge book. So it was, Saturday, when Vic Sluce, Ron Bell and Bob Lawrie exchanged tales with John Lunau during an informal meeting at the Markham Museum. This one, concerning Stouffville's Jack Watson (Ninth Line and Main Street), was related by Ronnie Bell. It seems that, back in the 50's when undertaker "Tim" O'Neill was actively involved with the "Clippers", he would call on Jack to assist him in picking up a recently deceased. On this one occasion, Jack had just returned from a tough game and was "dead" tired. So he lay down in the back of the hearse for a quick nap. En route to the home, Tim decided to stop for gas. Just as the station attendant was in the midst of filling the tank, Jack woke up and naturally wondered what was going on. So he pulled back the side curtains and peered out just as the attendant peered in. "The man went white as a ghost and gasoline flew in all directions." Ron couldn't recall whether the attendant joined Jack in the back of the hearse or not. Maybe Jack can.
