Cautious approach best

Dear Mr Thomas:

People often become impatient with government. Sometimes it seems slow to act, especially on issues that, to most of us, appear routine. This occurs at all levels—municipal, provincial and federal.

The proposed Recreation Complex for Whitchurch-Stouffville is a case in point.

While a cross-section of folks are gung-ho for this project, the Town Council must consider carefully all aspects of a venture of such magnitude. For it is our elected representatives and not the project's promoters who will absorb the flak when our taxes soar out of sight.

It's all right to say "do it now", but we're talking a facility that hopefully will be in existence 100 years from now. Careful planning is required.

From reading between the lines, it's apparent our Council won't be stampeded into this venture. I don't blame them. They represent over 14,000 ratepayers, some of whom don't give a damn if they build anything.

Geographically, the make-up of Whitchurch-Stouffville is unfortunate. With the urban centre (Stouffville) so far off-centre, it's difficult if not impossible to interest folks in Cedar Valley, Pine Orchard, Vandorf and even Vian in what goes on there. However, when Council talks of a $2 million structure, to which all must contribute (like it or not), then our interest is aroused. Mayor Eldred King is undoubtedly aware of this.

So a word of advice. Soft-pedal this project; do some "missionary work" behind the scenes and maybe, just maybe, the whole municipality will get behind it.

Sincerely,
Gordon Bailey,
R.R. 1, Cedar Valley.
