Plans funeral home

WHITCHURCH — Plans for a proposed funeral home at Lot 1, Conc. 5, Whitchurch-Stouffville, were presented before Town Planning Board, but following some expressed concerns and questions, members recommended the application be discussed further in committee.

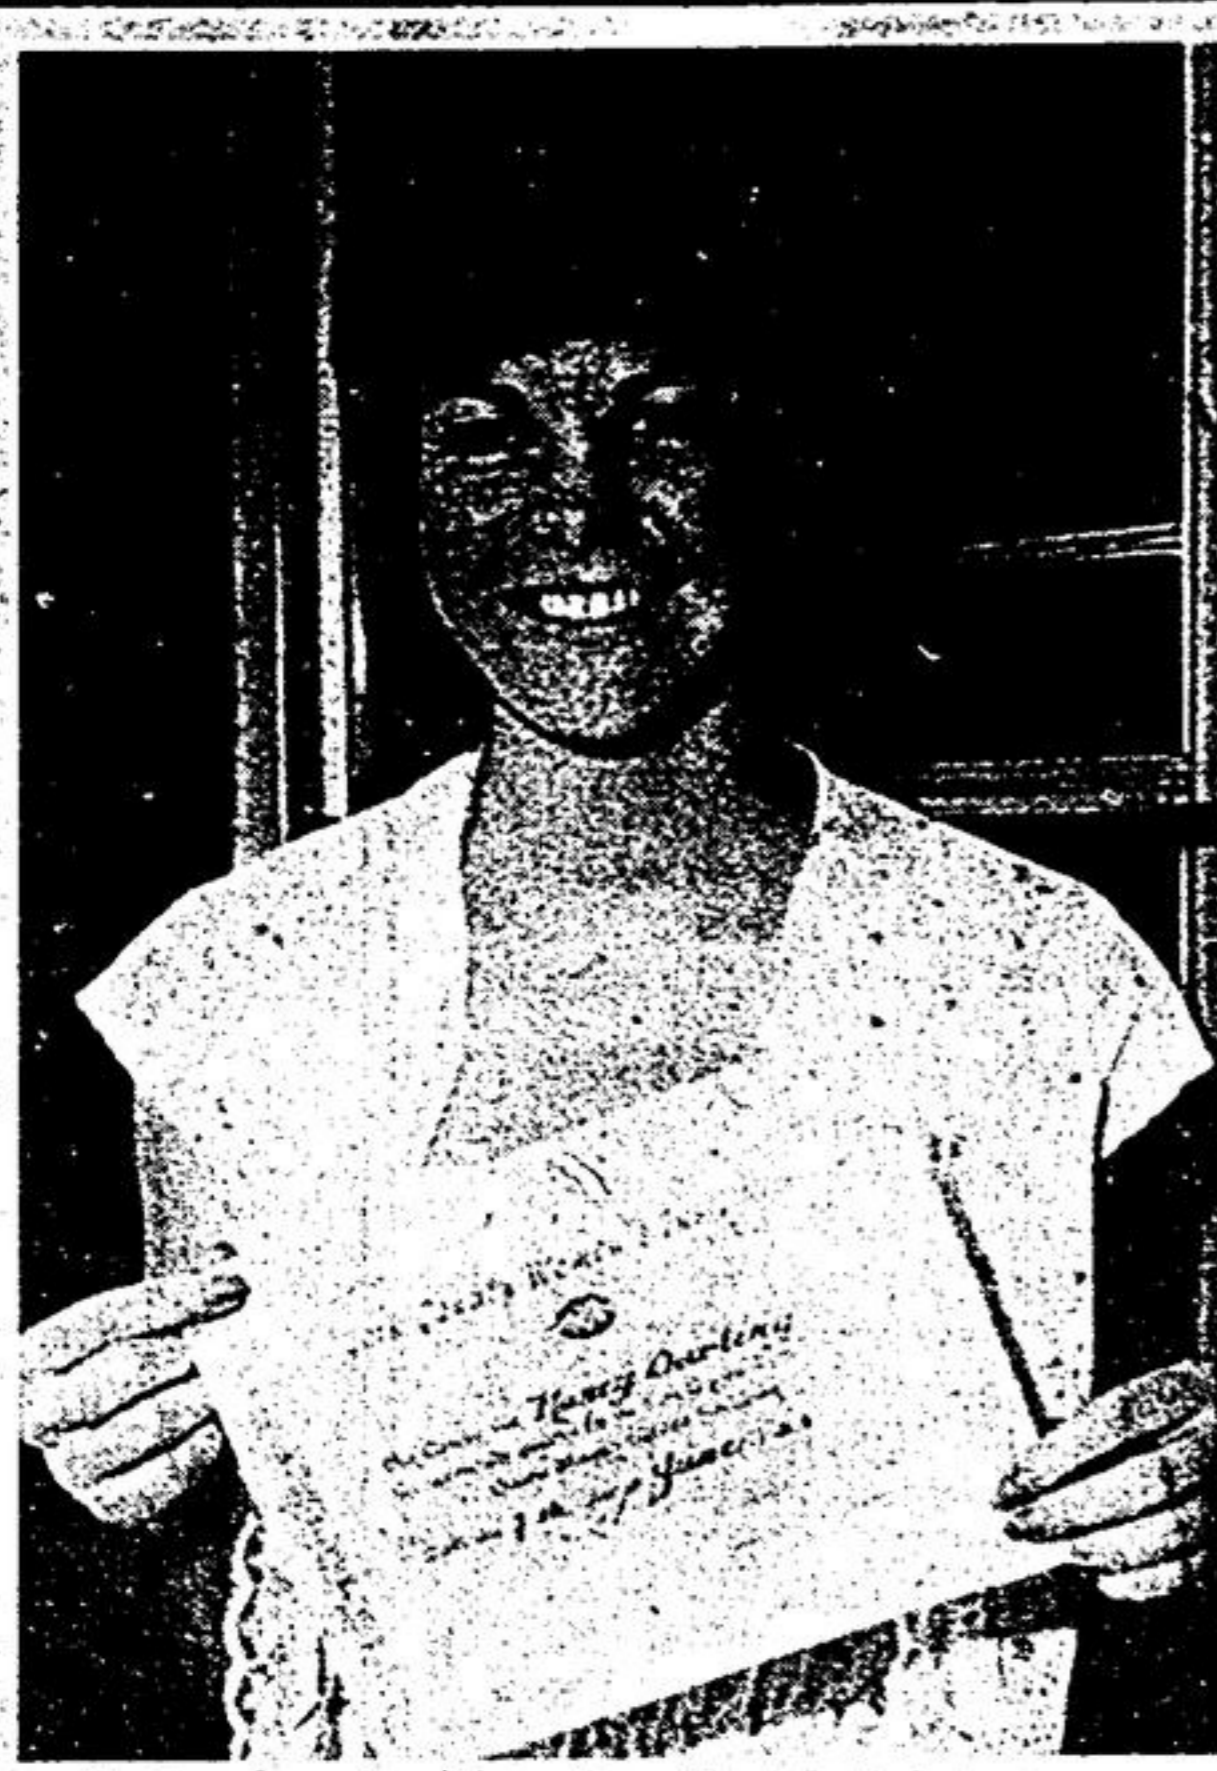

"I believe there are some outstanding questions that demand further research," said Mayor Eldred King.

Byron E. Ring, for the past 15 years operator of the B. E. Ring Funeral Home, Thornhill, applied to buy the property for a hobby farm since he raises horses.

According to Solicitor Donald Hindson, Mr. Ring found the property something less of a hobby so he's proposed to keep approximately 42 acres of land for his horses and living accommodation. The remainder would be used for a funeral home built on a Georgian Style appearance.

The property is presently classified as rural, but Mr. Ring is requesting it be re-zoned for both rural and commercial use.

"Any part of the site could lead to further commercial designation," said Mayor King. "We do have a reasonable amount of commercial lands (presently) in the area that needs to be developed."

Receives W. I. Scholarship

Nineteen-year-old Nancy Darling, completing her Grade 13 year at Stouffville Dist. Secondary School, was awarded the prestigious Anna P. Lewis Scholarship, June 7, at a Women's Institute ceremony held in Sharon. Nancy is the daughter of Allan and Dianne Darling, Loretta Crescent South, Stouffville.

Improve ball fields

STOUFFVILLE — Whitchurch-Stouffville Council has given the Recreation Department the go-ahead to spend an extra $6,000 on baseball diamond improvements throughout the 1983 season.

"It's an appropriate position at this time," said Mayor Eldred King.

The recommendation, submitted by the Property Committee, estimated a total of $6,150 in improvements was needed on baseball diamonds. The expenses included $850 for 100 tons of stone dust for all diamonds; $4,400 for back stops and fencing and $900 for machine time.

The Recreation Committee will also be informed that if recreation expenses surpass the 1983 budget, the money needed for diamond improvements will be taken from the Park Trust Fund.
