

Concern?

Dear Editor:
While native residents of our Claremont community may not look on polluted wells as a major problem, our family does.
However, there seems to be a "who cares?" attitude in this village, perhaps with just cause.
WHO DOES CARE?
It would seem to me that some statement would have been issued by the Town of Pickering, due to the seriousness of the situation. I'm sure that if similar conditions existed in Bay Ridges, Dunbarton or Pickering Village, emergent meetings would have been held long ago.
July and August are often described as "dog days" as far as politicians are concerned due to a lack of activity. This certainly pertains to us. We're being treated like dogs!

Sincerely,
Janice Wallace,
Claremont.

Being selfish

Dear Editor:
Strange isn't it that we, as a community, can be so thoughtful of each other in some respects and so selfish in others.
I'm particularly incensed over the number of people I see watering their lawns and gardens at unlawful hours.
This type of attitude indicates the "Me Society" is still alive, even in Stouffville.
Sincerely,
Jean Corbett,
Stouffville.

Markham Missionary Church

Stouffville girl is lovely bride

Candelabras of pink and white carnations and mums, made a lovely setting for a wedding in the Markham Missionary Church, June 11, 1983, when Lois Marie James, daughter of Mr and Mrs Ronald James of Stouffville, became the bride of Charles Stephen Gingerich, son of Mr and Mrs Stephen Gingerich of Zurich, Ont.

Rev. Grant Sloss officiated with Mrs Eric Pilkey at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a white taffeta gown. It was trimmed with lace yoke and sleeves, both accented with a wide taffeta flounce, falling into a lace-edged train. Her long veil fell from a floral headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, stephanotis and baby's breath with trailing ivy.

The matron of honor was Mrs Calvin Rae, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were Mrs Gordon Roach, sister of the groom; Mrs Wayne Nafziger, sister of the groom and Mrs Christopher Cressall, friend of the bride. They wore floor-length gowns in blending shades of pink, rose and burgandy with matching nosegays and flowers in their hair.

During the ceremony, Kimberley Knapp sang two lovely solos, "God-Given Love" and "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us" and was joined by Brenda Palmer in a duet entitled "Gift of Love".

Wayne Nafziger, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Wayne Gingerich, Calvin Rae and Robert Steckle.

The reception was held at Sleepy Hollow Golf and Country Club with Calvin Rae the Master of Ceremonies.

The bride's mother received in a floor-length two-piece gown of periwinkle blue. The groom's mother assisted in a floor-length gown of dusty mauve, trimmed with ruffles at neck and sleeves.

Following the reception, the happy couple left from the bride's home on a wedding trip to the East Coast and Newfoundland. They are now residing in Willowdale.

Lois Marie James, daughter of Mr and Mrs Ronald James, Ninth Line North, Stouffville and Charles Stephen Gingerich, son of Mr and Mrs Stephen Gingerich of Zurich, were married June 11 in the Markham Missionary Church. The happy couple are now residing in Willowdale.

Excellence is never an accident. It results from careful planning and sensitive execution by dedicated and expert professionals.

Excellence inspires. It offers a model to be emulated. It calls forth the finest in each individual. Its pursuit demands vision, sacrifice and commitment.

Excellence is contagious.

Excellence in education is a planned, rigorous and sound curriculum pursued in a supportive and concerned environment under the caring direction of a trained, sensitive and demanding faculty.

Pickering College, as Ontario's second oldest independent school, has a tradition of excellence. It offers a balanced academic program leading to university entrance through Ontario diplomas and through the prestigious and more demanding International Baccalaureate. With 1 teacher for every 9 pupils, the College uses individual counselling and academic guidance to follow up a complete grading each and every week. Comprehensive clubs and sports programs complete the school regimen.

Bene provisus principia ponantur. Our motto is a promise to lay sound educational foundations. It has been our watchword for excellence since 1842.
