

Dickson's Hill Hobby Day

Two hundred enter

DICKSON'S HILL — "Just great" were the words used by Guidance Instructor Joanne Roberts to describe the success of Dickson Hill School's one-day Hobby Show, Nov. 23. There were 200 participants, including several parents. "They displayed their own and viewed others," Mrs Roberts said, "an educational and enjoyable event".

Rug-hooking proved popular with many including sisters Cheryl and Leah Zinberg. Cheryl's 12 and in Grade 7. Leah's 10 and in Grade 4. Cheryl received the set for her birthday and her interest quickly caught on with Leah.

Dianne Stuckey, nine, enjoys the same hobby. She gives credit to her grandfather for showing her how. She's been doing it four years. The finished products are either hung on walls or placed on the floor, depending on their size, she said.

Nine-year-old Rhonda Tatone, Bethesda Road, attracted considerable attention with her violin. She's been playing about a year. Although the instrument is a gift from her father, the talent comes from her mother, she said with a smile.

Collecting stamps is popular. Rebecca Lawrence, eight, of Garnish Green, Markham, has more than four hundred, one from as far distant as Hong Kong. Kira Andrews, also eight, of Penny Drive, Markham, is a stamp collector too. She's been adding to her collection since kindergarten. She was assisted in setting up her display by classmate Tara Myles.

Another intriguing hobby was displayed by Jennifer Jones, 10, of Fincham Avenue, Markham. Described as "Doughies", the exhibit included dozens of dolls and ornaments cut out of dough. Each is placed in an oven and then hung on the Christmas tree.

Other crafts and hobbies included coin collecting, photography, needlepoint and knitting, model aeroplanes and collections of sea shells and stones.

Due to the success of the day, Mrs Roberts is certain the project will be continued.

Student displays musical talent

Grade 4. Two hundred pupils participated in the popular event under the direction of staff Guidance teacher Joanne Roberts.

Nine-year-old Dianne Stuckey of Ninth Line, Markham, enjoys rug-hooking and displayed her talent, Wednesday. She began her hobby four years ago and has completed many lovely wall hangings and rugs.

MS meeting

STOUFFVILLE — The Multiple Sclerosis Society, (York East Chapter), met Nov. 15 at Stouffville Dist. Secondary School. The newly elected executive and committee chairpersons were introduced and accepted by the membership. They are: Chairperson-Margaret Gibbons, (640-3160); Treasurer-George Gibbons; Secretary-Jean Hardy, (640-6394); Public Relations Chairperson-Marie Adams, (640-1314); Program Coordinator-Lorna Burrows, (887-5480); Education Coordinator-Margaret Britton, (640-3400);

Fund-Raising Chairperson-Blanche Toole, (473-3557); Membership-Kathy Fockler, (640-1087); Patient Services-Frances Grose, (887-5115). Plans were outlined for the 1983-84 season. Serving the Stouffville, Markham, Unionville and Mount Albert communities, the Association's major emphasis will be the setting up of self-help and family support groups in each area.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Valerie and Kristina Hoover, R.R. 1, Stouffville. Volunteers and members are urgently needed to assist with the work. The Association is asking the community for help and support. Membership information is available from any of the persons mentioned above. Application forms can be obtained at Marie Adams' Christian Supply Centre, 79 Main Street East, Stouffville.

The M.S. Christmas Party and general meeting will be held Tues., Dec. 6 at 7:30 p.m., in the Ballantrae Community Centre. All interested persons are invited to attend.

HELPS WHEN DISASTER STRIKES!

Dining with Cal

BY CAL AVERY

To-night, we give you a somewhat different offering. Located between Farmer Jack's and Girard Carpets, we visit the Stouffville Deli Restaurant.

Warm summer days will find many patrons outside, enjoying the flower-enclosed patio. Inside, the atmosphere is pleasant and very European with a smashing delicatessen.

The only drawback to any individual like myself with, as you might have guessed, a rather wide girth, are the narrow table and bench-style seats which offer very little breathing room. Dress here, is casual and the service is accompanied with a smile.

Lately, the chef has been specializing in game dishes. Having appreciated the luncheons here before, we are not disappointed to-night. Cathryn wasn't quite "game" for the game dishes, opting for the corn beef on rye, a very generous serving, side-dressed with perfect french fries and creative greens such as lettuce, colleslaw, grated carrots, pickles, tomatoes, cucumber and a slice of orange!

My buffalo steak is not only scrumptious and tongue-tingling but makes me appreciate the fact that good food can still be offered at reasonable prices. To-night, the clientele is a mixture of family and business diners. Here, a fine children's menu is also offered.

Accompanying the meal, we each have a glass of wine. The restaurant, at present, has a beer and wine licence. Cathryn enjoys a delicious piece of home-made apple pie. I, once again, elect for my favorite—black forest cake and I'm not disappointed. It is rich and fresh.

The food here, is well prepared and very reasonably priced, making the Deli Restaurant a great place for the whole family to enjoy dinner out.

The location is Hwy. 47, (north side), just east of Hwy. 48. Prices for, two range from fifteen to twenty-five dollars.

Coming soon—The Old Country Inn, Main Street, Unionville.

That tickles!

Santa visits Ballantrae seniors

That tickles, says Grace Pattenden as Santa Claus snuggles in for an affectionate kiss at the Senior Citizens' Christmas Party in the Ballantrae Community Centre, hosted by the Ballantrae and District Lions Club, Friday night. St. Nick's arrival concluded a spirited event that included music by a ladies' barbershop quartette from Woodville. One hundred and fifteen seniors attended with Tom Wood of Ballantrae the master of ceremonies.
