

REFLECTIONS OF MARKHAM

Simply stated, Woodcraft manufactures and sells quality furniture with very special appeal. In fact it is so well made that it would likely become available antique in time with just minimum of care. Beautifully designed and well balanced design make a choice of any piece, or grouping a worthwhile possession with that special quality of good workmanship that defies accurate description. The wood used is solid pine or oak, no artificial pressboard is ever used for dining room tables, kitchen tables, buffets, bedrooms or occasional pieces.

Woodcraft has its own very sizeable factory on the premises at 320 Denison St. East in Markham. It has been moved from its earlier place at The Barn, another location on the corner of Markham Road and Steeles where more retail space was required. The factory and its able craftsmen and women produce this fine furniture solely for its own retail sales. Woodcraft opened its doors at The Barn in 1974 and it has been quite a success story with many trying to imitate (but never quite succeeding) the very special appeal, quality and workmanship.

For all of these considerations, Woodcraft deserves your personal visit.

The staff and management would like to extend the best wishes of the season to all friends and customers and their loved ones.

One year ago, almost to the day, The Nailady opened her doors for business in Markham with some very specific ideas as to how to service the Markham area with quality nailcare. She never looked back and built a solid reliable business in The Village Shoppes Plaza, on Main Street Markham. Sculptured nails are actually porcelain nails. In the process there are 2 powders which together with a certain liquid build up your own natural nails to give a natural look and is semi-permanent. Because of natural nail growth needs "nail fill" in about three to five weeks. The complete procedure makes for particularly strong and beautiful nails.

Then there are the natural manicures, which is a professional reshaping of the nails, cuticles receive special attention and nail hardeners are used for extra protection against breakage and the nails are finally polished.

Ear piercing is a specialty also and the studs come in a wide variety of gold, silver, pearl, diamond look and there are the birthstone studs.

Christmas gift giving is also part of Nailady's specialties, she offers a unique little basket with just the right things to please any woman. It contains nightcream, eye liner, nail polishes, perfume, a little pencil sharpener is also included, lip liners and eyebrow tweezers. Special at only $8.50. Recently the Nailady opened another location in Aurora and without doubt it will be a success equal to The Markham story, built with professional care and excellent service. Incidentally, men also make use of the service for simply good looks or professionally as in extra strong nails for playing the guitar.

Towne optical has earned the trust and confidence of its customers by consistently dispensing and servicing professionally. Jack is a certified contact lens fitter as well as being one of the rare examples of having learned and worked at every facet of the business which includes grinding lenses, lab technician, master certificate to fit contact lenses. He has extended his lab on the premises and now employs a full time lab technician. Jack also does work for other opticians in the business. He has a loyal and well deserved following among his many customers. "Knowledge of the product, good service and competitive price makes for success," says Jack with a smile, and he adds "reliable staff". WENDY is particularly able in dispensing and the personal appropriate selection of fashion eyewear. She is particularly knowledgeable in the latest in eyewear fashion and has that particular gift in helping to choose the most attractive eyewear for her customers. A new member has recently joined the staff to better serve its customers; Anne comes from our store in Oshawa and brings with her experience and a great deal of talent for the optical business.

Choosing an optician is a difficult choice for the general public. Jack Snelgrove is often quoted by the media as an expert (Toronto Star, Voque, Oshawa this week).

Together with an able staff, Towne Optical deserves your consideration. Of particular interest at the moment is Jack's "bevelled" design for glasses, for a frameless look.
