Members of the wedding party are Cathie Holder, the maid of honor and Mark Kirkby, the best man.

Enlarge site

STOUFFVILLE—Onward and upward! This is the battle hymn of the congregation at Stouffville Pentecostal Church following a decision to purchase eight additional acres of property adjacent to the present site. The issue was discussed and approved "overwhelmingly" at the 1984 annual meeting.

The congregation will now turn its thoughts towards the construction of an addition to the present church. Stouffville Pentecostal is located at 460 Main Street East. The minister is Rev. Craig Pitts.

Praise skill

STOUFFVILLE—The works in marble and bronze by sculptor Cara Popescu are receiving rave reviews by visitors to Latham Gallery. Descriptions like "terrific," "superb" and "beautiful" have been written in the book opposite names of guests, both local and from a distance. "A joy to see and touch," said one admirer. The display will remain until Feb. 26.

Appreciation

STOUFFVILLE—The Sunday School room at St. James Presbyterian Church will be named "Morris Hall" in recognition of William (Bill) Morris and members of the Morris family.

The recommendation was approved unanimously at the church's annual meeting Feb. 4. Mr Morris and family will be honored at a ceremony following Communion Service, Sunday, March 4. Bill Morris, a resident of Parkview Home, has been associated with the St. James' congregation since 1922. It is generally recognized that St. James Church owes its presence in the community to the work of Mr Morris, especially during the "lean years" when attendance was small.

VISITS FOSTER FAMILY

Dr. Jerome DeLaurier of Stouffville recently returned from four weeks spent in Haiti where he visited with his foster family, an association that has continued since they first met back in 1979. Jerome met the father who, at that time was serving as a tour guide. He encouraged him to attend a drivers' education school and financed the course. The father of four is now the operator of a taxi there. He and the family have become very close so much so, they look on Jerome as the godfather to their youngest boy, also named Jerome. He will be two years old in March. While in Haiti, Dr. DeLaurier stayed with friends associated with the American Embassy. The weather was between 75 and 80 degrees. "I had a swim before breakfast every morning," Jerome told The Tribune. Creole is the native language there and Jerome is now able to communicate in Creole quite well "as long as they speak slowly".

On trial

STOUFFVILLE—Beginning March 4, a change in worship and Sunday School times will go into effect at St. James Presbyterian Church.

On this date, Sunday School will commence at 10 a.m. and the service at eleven. The change is for a trial period of four months after which the pros and cons will be reassessed.

During the past year, nine members were received into the congregation raising the membership to 85 as of Dec. 31, 1983. There were ten baptisms.

At the annual meeting, Feb. 4, reports were received from the Kirk Session, (John Hazlewood); Board of Managers, (Martin Johanness); Women's Missionary Society; (Esther Powell); Willing-Helpers, (Sharon Dyball); Sunday School, (Alan Powell-Joy Johanness); Children of the Church, (Joy Johanness); The Nursery, (Gayle Atkinson); Junior Congregation, (Joan Hazlewood) and the Youth Fellowship, (Garry and Ann Grundy).

With the departure of Rev. Ted Green for Owen Sound, St. James Church is seeking a permanent pastor. Until a successor is named, Rev. Murray Barron of Newmarket is in charge of Sunday services with Rev. Peter Ruddell of Thornhill, the interim moderator.
