

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME: Janice Hill holds her new bundle of joy, Jordan Mark, who was recently born by natural childbirth. When Jordan entered the world, his parents decided the home environment was the ideal surroundings, so, instead of the usual hospital stay he was taken home five hours after delivery. However, Jordan's sister, Melanie, never made a hospital debut. To her parent's delight, she was born in the comfort of their own home.

Career switch comedy

Trading roles between husband and wife is the theme of Borelians Community Theatre's upcoming performance, The Hand that Cradles the Rock, which starts May 10, 11, 12 and May 17, 18 and 19.

The newest production reveals the frustration and antics of a husband who stays home with the wet diapers and household duties while the attractive and successful wife goes out to business.

The Hand that Cradles the Rock has three new comers to the stage. They are Brian Doddridge, Janice Pashley, and Vern Vogle. Other cast members include Roz Pritchard and Borelians President, Sandra Blakney.

Saturday night performances will be held in a dinner theatre form while on the four other nights it will be in cabaret style.

A special free showing, on May 9, will be given to area nursing homes, shut-ins, and charitable groups.
