Learning experience

It was a lesson in Family Life and Sex Education like children would never receive in a classroom.

On Friday, ten piglets were born during Markham Fair at Old MacDonald's Farm. In the three days that followed, they were viewed by hundreds of boys and girls.

Arrival of the offspring was anticipated Thursday. However, Lewis Reesor, the sow's owner inserted a question mark at the conclusion of the printed announcement—just in case. He was only a few hours out.

The birth and subsequent feeding of the 'family', prompted a flood of questions, some of which, accompanying teachers found difficult to answer. Fortunately, a member of the 'farm' committee was always close at hand to help out. These included Don Miller (chairman); Glen Brown, Harvey Brown, Paul Buttar, Lynn Westaway, Pat Courage, Blair White, Diane Ward, Marcus Jarvis, Bob Lapp, Stephen Lewis, John Thomas and Rob Miller.

Livestock on display in the barn included Hereford cow and calf Ron Wilson, Mt. Albert Nubian goats, Kari Kelso, Claremont geese, Bud Anthony, Whitevale baby chicks, Checkerboard Hatchery, Mt. Albert pony and colt, Lionel Purcell, Markham ducks, Murfay Reesor, Cedar Grove rabbits, a Bantam hen and chicks, Clay Gayman, Unionville Beagle dog and pups, Darlene Lewis, Uxbridge Holstein cow, Don Miller, Markham hogs, Brown Bros., Unionville Jersey cow, Paul Raymer, Markham donkeys, Lionel Purcell, Markham Percheron mare and foal, Rick Tribbling, Mt. Albert Jersey cow, Barry Little, Cedar Grove, Belgian mare and foal, Murray Grove, Stouffville, Clydesdale mare and foal, Steve and Sheri Lewis, Markham.

Huge squash

Weighed

300 pounds

A three hundred pound squash? That was the size of the toe-crusher exhibited by Peter and Emilie Jacobson of Cookstown at Markham Fair's Heavies Squash Contest, sponsored by Farmer Jack of Unionville and Stouffville.

It topped by 26 pounds the second place entry from Joseph Kornwick of Keswick. It tipped the scales at 274.

In third place was a squash entered by Daniel McNailey of Stouffville. It weighed 232 pounds.

Don Jennings of Milliken was fourth (224 lbs.); George Cox of Gormley, fifth (160 lbs.) and Robt. Olshevski of Stouffville, sixth, (113 lbs.).

Security around this exhibit was quite relaxed due to the fact no one other than The Incredible Hulk was likely to carry one away. P.S. No one did.

Come to the Glass Store. Over 300 different kinds of glasses.

It's a most enjoyable shopping experience. Over 300 kinds of shimmering glasses surprisingly well-priced. Distinctive vases, decanters and lovely tempered glass tableware. So many beautiful things to see, to give, to treat yourself.

Scandinavian affordable design. These heavy-base old fashioned and highballs echo the best of Scandinavian design. Good quality and well-priced at $7.99 each. Open stock.

"Fleur" tableware open stock. We've the full line of Fleur tempered glassware, from France, from small dishes to large, small plates to large, and cups and saucers. And it's all open stock so you can collect one piece at a time. Priced from $1.99 to $12.99 a piece.

Antique memories. Reminiscent of early Canadian pressed glass, these tumblers and old fashions will enhance your table and any beverage. Durable and well-priced from $2.59 to $2.79 each. All open stock.

Cosmos tempered glass dinnerware from France. These clear glass bowls, plates, cups and saucers from France are tempered, so they're shock and heat resistant. Affordably priced, open stock, to buy one or more at a time. Priced from just $1.50 to $5.79 each.

"Vase" stemware from France catches the light. These swirled effect wineglasses are pretty yet practical. In all sizes from liqueur to goblet they also have matching highballs and old fashions. All open stock, from $1.39 to $2.89 each.

"Brahms" a little light music in glasses. From Italy, optic effect highballs, old fashions and liqueurs. Quality glass that's light and good looking. Nice enough to make anything taste better. Open stock, from $2.99 to $4.99 each.

Open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday thru Saturday Friday till 9 p.m.

We register brides.
