The Ballantrae-Lemonville pastoral charge of the United Church of Canada, enjoyed a rewarding experience last week, when they welcomed into their homes and their hearts, a group of first-year students from the United Church Theological Seminary - Emmanuel College. This excursion, with nearly fifty students attending, was considered one of the many practical applications of life in the Pastorate, that these students will have over the next three years of study. The emphasis being on the small rural church, and its role in the changing community.

The event began Tuesday, after a get-acquainted hour at Lemonville United Church. A tour of the area included a bird's eye view of residential districts, farms and a visit to 'Sprucefair' at milking time.

Later, an old-fashioned church supper was served in the Lemonville Church Hall. A service of celebration followed in the sanctuary with the congregation joining in. Several members of the Ballantrae and Lemonville congregations, shared various aspects of rural church life in the community, including the advantages and disadvantages. Ed Reid spoke as a "commuter"; Pat Courage as a "retiree"; Marion Wells—"the influence of the church in the community"; Pauline Hirsch—"the newcomer to the community"; Dorothy Duggan—"Walk in Faith" and Lillian Over—"the church then and now".

Wednesday Morning, the group gathered at the Ballantrae Church. The special guest was Susan Kilborn of the Toronto United Church Council. She spoke on the research and planning aspect of church growth, sharing projected growth areas for the district over the next several years. After a brief worship service and lunch, the students headed back to the College.

While this is a physical description of a special event in our church and community life, there was a much deeper appreciation and understanding experienced by everyone who participated. Actions can vividly describe, but feelings are more difficult to express in the written word.
