Studies, flying combine in student's career plans

SANDFORD — An interest in flying has helped shape the career plans of Sandford's Sonya Meek.

Although just 19, Sonya, a second-year Honors Geography student at the University of Waterloo, has already obtained her private pilot's licence.

"A lot of what I'm studying relates to flying," she says, noting that she'd like to eventually combine her chosen subject and her aerial hobby in a career.

Sonya, the daughter of Norman and Carol Meek, Sandford, is the recipient of the 1984 Ontario County Women's Institute scholarship for 4-H Homemaking Club members.

A $200 cash award is going toward the cost of her university education.

Sonya completed 12 4-H units over a six-year period while earning County and Provincial honors. She also held offices of president, secretary and treasurer and was an assistant leader.

The Sandford youth group was another area of involvement and she also taught Sunday School for four years.

Despite her busy schedule, Sonya found time to help around the family farm, located on Conc. 4 south of Sandford.

Sonya's a graduate of Uxbridge Secondary School, where she was an Ontario Scholar and won the geography award in her final year.

Involvement with the year book, including 1982-83 when she served as editor, was an enjoyable high school experience.

Sonya, whose just about to turn 20, gained some valuable work experience this past summer while employed by the South Lake Simcoe Conservation Authority, Newmarket.

As a summer student involved with the Lake Simcoe Environmental Management Study, Sonya helped conduct a streambank erosion study.

She wrote a report documenting the findings, performed an agricultural field erosion identification study and updated computer files concerning water quality and quantity.

"It was a fun job and I really learned a lot," she says.

One of the reasons Sonya chose geography was the wide variety of subject matter that exists within the field.

She says her interest slants more toward the environmental and physical aspects of geography.

Her father, Norman, is a pilot and it was with him that Sonya got her first taste of flying.

"I love looking at the world from above."

Course offered

PICKERING — A six-week course on self-defence will be offered at the Pickering Recreation Complex.

The classes, geared toward female participants, will be held Wednesdays from 1 to 3 p.m. They'll begin Nov. 14 and continue until Dec. 19.

Registrations will be accepted at the reception desk in the Complex.

Cost of the course is $15, payable upon enrolment.

she notes, "and I like the freedom of flight."

As a member of the International Flying Farmer Teens organization, Sonya was able to attend a 1980 convention in Calgary, Alta.

She hopes to acquire a commercial pilot's licence once she has completed university.

Sonya's now residing in Waterloo, but admits the city isn't her favorite place. She likes her native Sandford area and would prefer living in a similar rural setting after school.

Hold special services

CLAREMONT — Two special services of remembrance were held at Claremont Public School, Friday.

Students, first primary grades and then senior classes, joined with staff members to honor Canada's war dead.

Jean McNish and Jack Bates represented Royal Canadian Legion, Claremont branch 483, at the assemblies.

They answered questions concerning the Legion's function and its involvement in Sunday's Remembrance Day services.

Grade 6 student Jennifer Empringham read aloud a special remembrance address.

Also present were Rev. Cam Watts and Rev. Douglas Varey representing the Claremont pastoral charge.

DEAR STOUFFVILLE

After being in business in town for twenty-four years, we would like to take this opportunity to thank every one of our customers and friends for their continued and unflinching support.

Many of our customers we have since come to call our friends. We would also like to thank the business community for their continuing support, and hope that they will continue to support Kim and Allan Everson, the new owners.

We have had our ups and our downs as everyone does in business; but, by and large, the years have been very good to us and our success can be attributed directly to your patronage.

Our thanks to you all.
