

Church radiates warmth

By Jim Thomas
BAKER HILL — For Dana and Jacqueline Struve and family, association with the congregation of Baker Hill Baptist Church is an answer to prayer.

It provides Dana with a part-time pastorate and, at the same time, allows him to study for his master's degree at the Ontario Theological Seminary, Toronto.

Dana Struve has been the pastor at Baker Hill Baptist Church only two months and already he knows the love and warmth of this rural congregation. Mr. Struve, wife Jacqueline and children Jennifer and Michael, are presently living in Weston but hope to move to the area this summer.

—Jim Thomas

"We're overjoyed," Dana told The Tribune during an interview Sunday. "The people here are extremely warm and loving. We feel very much at home."

For Dana, the past 7 1/2 years were spent at Olivet Baptist Church in the community of Westport near Smith's Falls. Through God's guidance and the assistance of Rev. Jack Bart, Dana and Jacqueline were introduced to Whitchurch-Stouffville, a happening in their lives for which they're extremely appreciative.

Mr. and Mrs. Struve are presently residing at Weston where their children, six-year-old Jennifer and four-year-old Michael attend school. While commuting between Weston and Baker Hill presents no problem, Dana admits the winter weather could change all this. They're hoping to move to the Whitchurch-Stouffville area next summer.

Between his studies and the church, Dana has little spare time. He tries to be with his family as much as possible, describing them as "top priority."

Wife Jennifer enjoys singing, Dana says. On occasions, they sing together. "She hides my mistakes," he claims.

They met at Dorset Park Baptist Church and graduated together from Central Baptist Seminary. "I appreciate our common background," he states. Jennifer's a native of Glasgow, Scotland.
