Team faces challenge

UXBRIDGE Dave Anderson's looking forward to the month of February and so are the rest of his basketball teammates at Uxbridge Secondary School.
 The focus of their attention is Edmonton's Vic Redmen Invitational Basketball Tournament. Uxbridge Tigers will be in the prairie city to display their court skills at that prestigious event, Feb. 6 to 9.

Although he has good height at 6'3", the aggressive forward relies more on a deft shooting touch. He averages about 19 points a game, many of these scored from the outside, and is also a key rebounder.

The 18-year-old high school star feels the basketball program at U.S.S. has had a great deal to do with his development. Singled out for praise is staff member Jim Schwan, who has been an integral part of the U.S.S. sports scene since the 1960s.

Anderson led that 1983-84 squad into the playoffs, where they dropped a close decision to Ajax High School. He was a tower of strength in the Ajax contest until an elbow smash to the head left the big man in a daze, thus spelling disaster for the Uxbridge squad.

He (Schwan) works well with people who are just starting off, Anderson explains, noting that the school's midget basketball program (established by Schwan) places an important emphasis on the game's fundamentals. The Grade 13 student hopes to earn a spot on the York University basketball roster next season. He has applied there, and, if accepted, plans to study business administration.

Anderson admits it would be nice to qualify for the Ontario finals, but says the team will first have to make it past the Lake Ontario Secondary School Association (L.O.S.S.A.) and Central Ontario (COSSA) plateaus.

Hot shooter

Dave Anderson, a member of the senior boys' basketball team at Uxbridge Secondary School, has honed his shooting skills during a five-year high school career. The Grade 13 student would like to continue playing the sport next year at York University.
