Passes Suddenly
Service was held Wednesday from the O'Neill Funeral Chapel, Stouffville for Edith Smith of Glad Park Avenue, following her sudden passing, Feb. 16. Besides her husband, Leslie, she is survived by a daughter, Gillian of Altona; a son, Bernard of British Columbia and three grandchildren, Christopher Gould, Shawn and Samantha Smith.

In Hospital
The many friends of Hans Hirsch of Lemonville, wish him a speedy recovery.

Crossing guard honored for long service

Week by week, no Town employee provides a more appreciated service than Irene Conklin, Main Street crossing guard at Summitview School. On Feb. 12, she was presented with a long service pin by Town Mayor Tom Wood. Mrs. Conklin is pictured here with Grade 1 pupils Katie Blenkhorn and Rhonda Davis, both six.

Marmalade & Gumdrops

A pure delight

By Jim Holt

The Stouffville Players presented their latest effort at Latham Hall on the weekend. Titled "Marmalade Gumdrops," the mainly young cast took their even younger audience into the realms of fantasy — or more strictly into the bedroom of Wally Hampton, nicely played by Christine Germaino.

The story unfolds with the bedroom furniture springing to life, to offer sympathetic advice to Wally on what toys he should get rid of — his toy chest is overflowing and Mom has put her foot down. Some of it must go in the garbage.

Steve Bell played Windsor Chair with style — no nervousness there — and the audience loved his portrayal of a 'cool' mouse; although one young member in the audience observed: "His ears are too big."

Bernie Leewood as Winthrop Desk also came through with a nice performance as Leo the Lion, although his roaring and growling didn't fool any of us. We all knew he was just a big pussy cat really. It's a wonder the kids didn't try to get on the stage and stroke him.

Gay Blundon as Clair the Lamp gave a nice narrative, supposedly as Aesop the fable-teller, and she positively bubbled as the occupant of the Time Machine, very nicely done I thought.

Jill White was Bedelia the Bed and also played the juggler. She was quite convincing in her cameo parts. Her bright smile also helped offset the stark scenery.

Melanie Rogers gave a very strong interpretation as Libby the Bookcase. She shows considerable talent with an effortless performance; she also has that indefinable quality that all actors wish to possess — presence.

The Circus scene was excellent. The actors gave a performance that verged on pantomime and the audience loved it. I mean, what better way to step up the reaction than to go in among the audience, especially a young audience.

Congratulations to Roger Glazin for a fast-moving and most enjoyable confection. I enjoyed it every bit as much as the kids.

All-in-all a nice afternoon out for the family.

Improvement Plan

Entrance to town

STOUFFVILLE — McNeil Pharmaceutical compliments the westerly approach to Stouffville: Mayor Tom Wood says. The Town is now anxious to attract industry that will compliment McNeil's.

Mayor Wood's comments followed a public meeting Feb. 5, related to the future of Hwy. 47 between Ringwood (Hwy. 48) and Stouffville's former west boundary.

"It gave property owners an opportunity to have their say," Wood said, "we now know what they want rather than what we want."

The final decision, the mayor said, rests with council. He noted, however, that those opposed can always take their complaints before a hearing of the Ontario Municipal Board.
