Fairgate Collision Service

Scrap yard wrecks made like new

STOUFFVILLE — "You bend em, we mend em." That's the slogan over the door at Fairgate Collision Service, Main Street East and Tenth Line South, Stouffville. Bob Henry, Fairgate's proprietor firmly believes this, and he has the cars to prove it; once pieces of twisted metal, now showroom beauties, sleek and shiny.

"We fix everything from wheelbarrows to Mercedes Benz," Bob says. The shop was formerly operated by Nick Beelik.

Bob specializes in uni-body repairs. There are six others on staff.

At age 25, Bob Henry's a pro with ten years' experience. He's proud of his work, using only acrylic enamel. He's also upgraded the shop, an investment totalling many thousands of dollars.

Bob says he's never seen a car he couldn't fix. He points to the beauties parked out front as samples of his skill.

The telephone number for Fairgate Collision is 640-2060.

A good (fun) cause

Dear Jim:

The Kinsmen Club was disappointed that just over 200 people attended a recent hockey game between 36 members of the Stouffville Girls League and 15 Kinsmen and six Kinsons. However, from the number of smiling faces at the end of the contest, we think everyone had a good time.

I wish to thank referees Wayne Nugent and Doug Rex-Graham for donating their time and keeping the fighting to a minimum; timekeepers Gary Gornik and the Bag boys for stopping the clock whenever a Kin player was on a breakaway; the Whitchurch-Stouffville Minor Hockey Association and the Girls Hockey Association for their support.

The Kinsmen Club raised over $600 towards our commitment of $1,000 for 1985. The money will be donated to the Rec. Centre Fund.

I'm assuming a rematch with the girls will be forthcoming soon since most, at the end of the game, were heard to respond: "See you later, guys!"

Draw winners were: First-Marion Chambers, Stouffville; second-Ken Moore, Whitby; third-Ross Madill, Stouffville.

Sincerely,
 Jim Kidd,
 Project Chairman,
 Stouffville Kinsmen Club
