The grass grows greener in Stouffville

Thanks to the Stouffville Lions Club's door-to-door fertilizer campaign, the grass will be greener here this spring. The project netted the Lions close to $1,000, all of which will

Home Support hosts series of workshops

By Win Napier
STOUFFVILLE — Another series of workshops and seminars has been organized by the Special Projects Committee of Home Support Services, in the meeting hall at 50 Main Street West.

Although the program is designed principally for seniors, others in the community are invited.

On April 15, a Travel Slide Show was presented by Ged Stonehouse of Stonehouse Travel, Stouffville. It was an opportunity to see the world minus the hassles of flight schedules and take-a-chance accommodation.

On April 22, a workshop on Health Care will again be presented by Margaret Wideman and Judi France. This is the third in a spring series of four. Because of their popularity, they'll likely be continued in the fall. The fourth workshop is May 13.

On April 29, Pat Montgomery has agreed to conduct another workshop on Flower Arranging. These seminars have proved very successful, with everything from corsages to decorated hearth brooms emerging. Participants will be encouraged to try their skills. For information on materials, etc., call Clara Stout at 640-4448.

On May 6, Trish Hogg will conduct a seminar on Cooking For One or Two. Trish is a nutritionist at Parkview Home and has already gained the confidence of seniors through a previous workshop.

A wind-up party is rumored. However, chairperson Clara Stout is presently keeping these plans secret. Watch The Tribune for future announcements.
