

Keep people better informed

Dear Editor:

Councillor Jim Sanders was quoted in your May 22 paper as supporting more involvement by the general public in the process of Town planning.

I agree. The ordinary layman, myself included, knows absolutely nothing about planning. Everything connected with it is a foreign language. I feel I speak for most.

We become involved when something, (a new building or a new subdivision), affects us personally. Often, it's too late.

I feel the Town should bend over backwards in an effort to keep people better informed. Then, if we don't react to potential problems, we only have ourselves to blame.

Sincerely,

Erma Gray,
Stouffer Street,
Stouffville

New look for town hydrants

In preparation for Strawberry Festival Week, Stouffville's Main Street is taking on a new look. Here Trace Broom of the Whitchurch-Stouffville Parks and Recreation Department, applies a fresh coat of paint to one of several hydrants.
