

The grill of this Packard has a distinctive look that stands up well after 50 years.

Stanley Paulin of Thornhill sits in his 1930 cream-colored Stutz Bearcat.

This Cadillac sports some extra front-end features — flags of Ontario and Canada at Sunday's antique car show at Bruce's Mill.

The space age design of this 1960 four-door Oldsmobile Starfire gives a futuristic look to the car.

STELLAR. TRY US ON FOR SIZE.

Besides giving you a lot of luxury, Stellar gives you a lot of room.

Stellar was born in the mind of the Italian designer Giorgetto Giugiaro. He deserves full credit for designing a car that tall people love.

With the driver's seat pushed back, Stellar's front legroom runs 41 inches. And you can stretch out as much as you want because the front bucket seats recline fully. They also have adjustable headrests.

Stellar's roominess extends to the back seat area as well. Three adults can travel comfortably, with plenty of hip room and 37 inches of headroom.

There is one area where Stellar is beautifully small — price. For a luxury car that comes with tinted safety glass all around, rear seat heating ducts, and Michelin all-season, steel-belted radials as standard equipment, Stellar is truly an affordable automobile. Why not visit your Hyundai dealer and ask for a set of keys.

Test drive a Stellar today.

Hood ornaments were the thing back then — especially the one on this 1930 Stutz Bearcat.
