Lucky lady

Dear Editor:
I wish to make comment concerning the Stouffville golfer who was 'winged' near the 7th hole of the John Evelyn Course, suffering a broken hand.

This sort of thing happens, (or nearly happens), all the time. While few balls ever hit anyone, I've seen many near misses—at every course I've ever played.

There are rules and regulations related to the game of golf, the same as in all other sports. One of these is that you DON'T drive the ball until the player(s) ahead are out of range. Besides being a rule, it's just plain good golf etiquette. But many seem impatient or underestimate the strength of their drives.

Lucky for the injured lady, the ball didn't hit her on the head. She could have been killed.

Sincerely,
Bill Crowley,
Ellesmere Road,
Scarborough

Open shop

STOUFFVILLE— Hair Works is back. Just three months after closing its doors, the barbershop has reopened. The shop's new 'home' is on Main Street West, at the rear, (east side), of The Steerburger, directly across from its old location in the Stouffville Plaza.

The owners, Dominic Rigato and Tony Caradonna, closed out their business last spring. The space was acquired by A&P.

Dominic and Tony didn't want to leave their old site.

"We did a good business there," said Dominic, "we were doing well."

"We just have to hope we'll do even better here," added Tony.

Dominic Rigato and Tony Caradonna have re-opened their barbershop, called The Hairworks, at a new Stouffville location. The shop, formerly in the A & P Plaza, is now, at the rear, (east side), of The Steerburger, Main Street West.
