"Girl Next Door"

Good marks her goal

STOUFFVILLE — Good marks. That's the goal 18-year-old Gia Lo Patriello has set for herself this year at Stouffville High. She wants to maintain a high academic standard and qualify for entry to university, following graduation from Grade 13. Pediatrics is her chosen career.
 Gia's our "Girl Next Door."
 A resident of Tenth Line South, Stouffville, Gia admits the switch from the Stouffville Christian School to S.D.S.S. has been a major adjustment. "I loved the Christian School," she said, "the teachers were fantastic." She was a cheerleader there, also on the Year Book staff. Volleyball and basketball were favorite sports.
 For several seasons, Gia was a member of the Stouffville Figure Skating Club. She enjoys softball and ringette.

This past summer, she was employed with the Town's Parks and Recreation Department.
 Gia has enjoyed several exciting vacations including an entire summer spent in Australia. "I could have stayed there forever; the people were friendly and the scenery is beautiful."
 Gia admits a kawala bear would make a fine pet. Closest thing to it is "Tye," a lamb-like poodle received from her father as a birthday gift.
 Gia attends services at the Stouffville Pentecostal Church, an association gained through good friend, Cheryl Howard, Bethesda Road. She describes Rev. Craig Pitts, the pastor there as "a super person."
 Super also is boyfriend Louie Apreda, Aurora Sideroad. They've been keeping steady company almost a year.
