

Susan's a super trouser

STOUFFVILLE — In theatrical circles, she's a trouser. To the Stouffville Players, she's a super trouser. Susan Bell, R.R. 2, Stouffville, has been cast in the role of 'Bev' in the production of 'Husbandry' that goes on stage at Latcham Hall, Friday and Saturday, not by choice but by necessity.

Susan agreed to play the part after tragedy befell the family of Norma Daniel, Lakeshore Road, Musselman's Lake. Norma bowed out when her daughter was seriously injured in a car-motorcycle collision at the intersection of Woodbine Avenue and the Aurora Sideroad. Since accepting the challenge,

Susan's been working as a part-time mother and a full-time memorizer. She's keeping her fingers crossed she'll have everything down pat by curtain time. "I knew a few of the lines, but most I had to learn from scratch. I had to do it. I really had no choice," she said. Originally, she was the play's director. Now, she's doing both acting and directing. In order to cram, Susan locks herself in a room, no radio, no television, no distractions whatsoever. She goes over the part page by page, repeating the lines aloud.

With only two weeks to prepare, Susan admits she's pushing her luck. However, with the help of husband Steve and children Danny, Janine and Tracy, she's hoping to see it through.

Show time both evenings is 8 p.m. Admission is five dollars.

Susan admits she loves little theatre. "They can't get rid of me," she says. As 'Bev', Susan plays the role of the daughter-in-law who, with husband 'Harry' (Brent McLeod), are enticed by his parents to leave the big city and return to the family farm. The drama points out the difference in lifestyles between urban and rural areas.

Susan's in-laws are played by Bill Wyatt and Lorraine Speer. As an emergency replacement, Susan has only one request: "I hope the audience will be kind."
