What is justice?

Dear Editor:
What kind of judicial system do we have in Ontario?

I can understand justice but I don't understand how the judicial system works.

Why eight teenagers can consume large quantities of beer in a public park, (Jack Darling Park, Mississauga), on the night of June 21, then be put out at closing time rather than apprehended and charged with drinking under age, is a mystery to me.

Clearly they were breaking the law. Why were they not charged?

At the very least, police could have got in touch with their parents.

Had this been done, a terrible crime might have been averted. A kind, respected teacher-librarian wouldn't have lost his life. He wouldn't have been suspected as a 'queer', as these boys called him.

They saw the victim in the park, they didn't know him, had no idea where he lived, he was a perfect stranger. They had no idea who they'd brutally killed until they read the account on the front pages of the daily newspapers, saw it on T.V. and heard it on the radio.

The accused, in a few short years, can become doctors, lawyers, policemen, judges, even prime minister.

Where is the justice?

Sincerely,
Mrs. Bernard Burnell,
Mill Street,
Stouffville

Strong in faith

STOUFFVILLE — Elizabeth Luella Nigh died at Parkview Home, Stouffville, Nov. 30, 1985, in her 92nd year. She'd been a resident there since breaking her hip four years ago.

Born at Peaches in Markham Township, she was the eldest child in the family of Jacob and Sarah (Lehman) Wideman. One brother, Lorne, survives. She was predeceased by brothers Carson, Harry and Clarence.

For Mrs. Nigh, her family and church came first in her life. In 1915, she married Edgar Nigh. They farmed on the family homestead many years. Mr. Nigh predeceased his wife in 1975.

They had a family of three: Frances (O'Boyle), deceased; John of Stouffville and Bill of South River. There are five grandchildren, Jon, Susan (Stephenson) and Stephen, deceased; David and Mark Nigh and great-grandchildren, Matthew and Rhannon.

Uncompromising in her religious beliefs, Mrs. Nigh first attended Peaches Church, then Melville Church. She was active in the W.M.S. and W.A. organizations. She was organist and choir leader at Melville for 25 years and accompanied the Melville Quartet comprising Carson Wideman, Tom Hastings, John and Bill Nigh.

'Libbie' was best known for her hospitality and friendliness. She'll be missed by family members and friends.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Bruce Aitken with interment Melville Cemetery. Pallbearers were three grandsons, Jon, David and Mark Nigh and three nephews, Glen and Larry Wideman and Bob Worrell.

Concert

GOODWOOD — On Wed., Dec. 18, an old-fashioned Christmas Concert will be held in Goodwood Public School beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The 75-minute program will include participation by children from Kindergarten through Grade 6. Class numbers are planned along with selections by the choir.

The community is invited. There is no admission charge.
