Counselling Assistance to Small Enterprises

Your business has a big friend

Many businesses are looking forward to better times. Business growth, in order to be stable, must be built on a strong foundation. That's why the Federal Business Development Bank offers Counselling Assistance to Small Enterprises (CASE).

CASE counsellors are retired business people selected for their administrative talents and management experience. As the owner or manager of a small business, you can build the required foundation and identify new opportunities by getting advice from CASE.

Whatever you need — developing new markets, rationalizing your resources, reducing costs, improving productivity — you can help your business step ahead with CASE counselling.

CASE could also help you increase sales, upgrade billing procedures, even develop purchasing and control policies.

Call us and find out more about CASE counselling.
