ship in 1981-82. His father coached the team.

Bill also enjoyed other forms of recreation, including fishing, hunting and canoeing. Donations in his memory are being sent to the Canadian Wildlife Association.

At the conclusion of his college year, Bill was to begin a summer job as an arborist (tree-trimming) with the Town of Markham. "He was really excited about it," his father said.

Mr. Hutchison spoke of the closeness between himself and his son. "We were more like buddies," he said. "We did many things together."

Hundreds of student friends and former staff teachers called at the O'Neill Funeral Home Monday to pay their respects. Bill's death was announced over the High School's public address system Monday morning.

The sanctuary of Christ Church Anglican, Stouffville, was filled for the service Tuesday.

"Surviving," besides his parents, are sisters, Stephanie and Lindsey, and a brother, Steve. Interment was made at Stouffville Cemetery.

He was a member of the Stouffville Bantam Hockey Club that captured an Ontario Cham-the wheel. He wasn't found until early the next morning.

Bill had received much of his education in Stouffville, coming here from Kingston at age eleven.

He was an exceptional athlete, excelling in almost every sport, including cross-country and track and field.

Our spring was nice while it lasted

It was nice while it lasted. Saturday's spring-like weather prompted strolls through Stouffville's Park, both of Main Street, Stouffville, and five-year-old even a toe-dip in Duffin Creek. Rushing the season just a little are Charlene Thorpe, 21, and Carrie Evans, 19, Samantha Denney of Uxbridge.

Main St. plan excites town business area

STOUFFVILLE — Excitement is running high within the business area of downtown Stouffville.

This was apparent Wednesday when Juris Berzins, an urban design consultant, unveiled plans for a revitalized Main Street core that will include both street and store improvements.

Cost of the consultant's part in the project has been placed at $10,000 with the Town, the Chamber of Commerce and the Business Improvement Area Board sharing the expense.

Berzins said eight store-owners were already committed to "dressing up" their premises with others likely to follow.

The consultant queried his audience (including several businessmen), as to what theme they would like to see adopted.

"I want Stouffville's downtown to be unique," he said, "unlike any other in the area."

With respect to cost, he said in some instances, maximum effect can be created by spending between $200 and $600. A major exterior change would need to cost no more than $2,000, he estimated.

Jack Chambers' I.G.A. described by Chief Librarian George Schlukbier as "the marketing anchor on Main Street" had been slated for exterior renovation but the owner decided to hold back pending completion of a downtown plan.

Ged Stonehouse, Chamber of Commerce president at the time of the meeting, described the enthusiasm as "contagious."

"Everything's coming together. We now have a plan, a concept. I feel twenty people will be approaching our consultant for guidance."

He recommended the B.I.A.

Arrest B.B. gun vandals

STOUFFVILLE — York Regional Police are hopeful the arrest of three Stouffville area boys, aged 12, 13 and 15, will halt a rash of vandalism that caused an estimated $14,000 damage.

The first arrest came two weeks ago. A 15-year-old was charged with mischief. But the damage spree didn't stop.

On April 15, a 12-year-old and a 13-year-old were questioned and also charged with mischief.

Police said the lads, using B.B. guns, shot out windows in the Greenpark Home Development, Stouffville; at Stouffville Dist. Secondary School and the Stouffville Sales Barn. They also smashed the glass in several Bell Telephone booths, a number of parked cars and a bus belonging to Simcoe Transit Authority of Sunderland.

Sgt. Peter Thompson said extra hours of police work went into the investigation before the arrests were made. "If you don't nip this sort of thing in the bud, it can get out of hand," he concluded.

On display

Stouffville Dist. Secondary School is holding its first "Open House" in eight years.

Staff and students are hosting a full program of activities Wed., April 30 from 7 to 10 p.m. Events will include displays and demonstrations in the shops, art, family studies, fashion show, square dance in the gym (with audience participation), a band concert, displays of art, science experiments, memorabilia room dating back to the school's opening in 1953, with food and refreshments in the cafeteria.

The theme of the Open House is "A Community School That Provides a Well-Rounded Education." Although parents are invited to also are residents with no son or daughter enrolled, Principal John Nifield told The Tribune, "We want people to see what we're doing."

and the Chamber attempt to involve additional landlords in the project. He also suggested local service companies like Hydro, Consumer's Gas and Bell Telephone co-ordinate their work programs to lessen construction inconvenience. Mr. Stonehouse complimented the consultant in accomplishing so much in such a short time.

Mr. Berzins said improvements to the streetscape and the buildings would not only give the downtown a visual lift but increase business as well.

"You people are not spending money just to make the place look pretty," he stated, "but to improve business for the entire town."

Mr. Schlukbier said a grant of up to $900,000 could be made available for various services, including paving and underground wiring. "But we needed a plan first," he said, something that showed intent.

Music Mania '86

Fresh start

STOUFFVILLE — Music Mania, a 25-year success, will have its sights set on the start of another milestone when it takes to the stage this week.

"We're carrying on a tradition," says director Ann Bell, "we want to keep it going another 25 years."

While Ann admits last year's silver anniversary show was a pinnacle of success for many long-standing performers, she's pleased to see so many new faces in the crowd.

The curtain goes up on Music Mania '86 Thursday night, at Stouffville Dist. Secondary School. Performances follow on Friday and Saturday. Time of each is 8 p.m.

Although seats in the front section are at a premium, there are still tickets available elsewhere at $5 (adult), $2.50 (ten years and under). There are special seniors and student admissions. Thursday only, at four dollars.

Theme of this year's show is "Caribbean Cruise."

Assisting director Ann Bell is producer Dorris Harvey. The music director is Don McNair; art director, Judy Todd; choreographer, Angela Tucker; assistant producer, Vi Schoppe and assistant choreographer, Blanca Creek.

Teacher urges tragedy halt

Seven hundred young people attended, ranging in age from 14 to 24.

Jane White told her audience of a desire to establish a Toc Alpha Club in Stouffville. Main concerns, she said, are drinking and driving, and drug abuse.

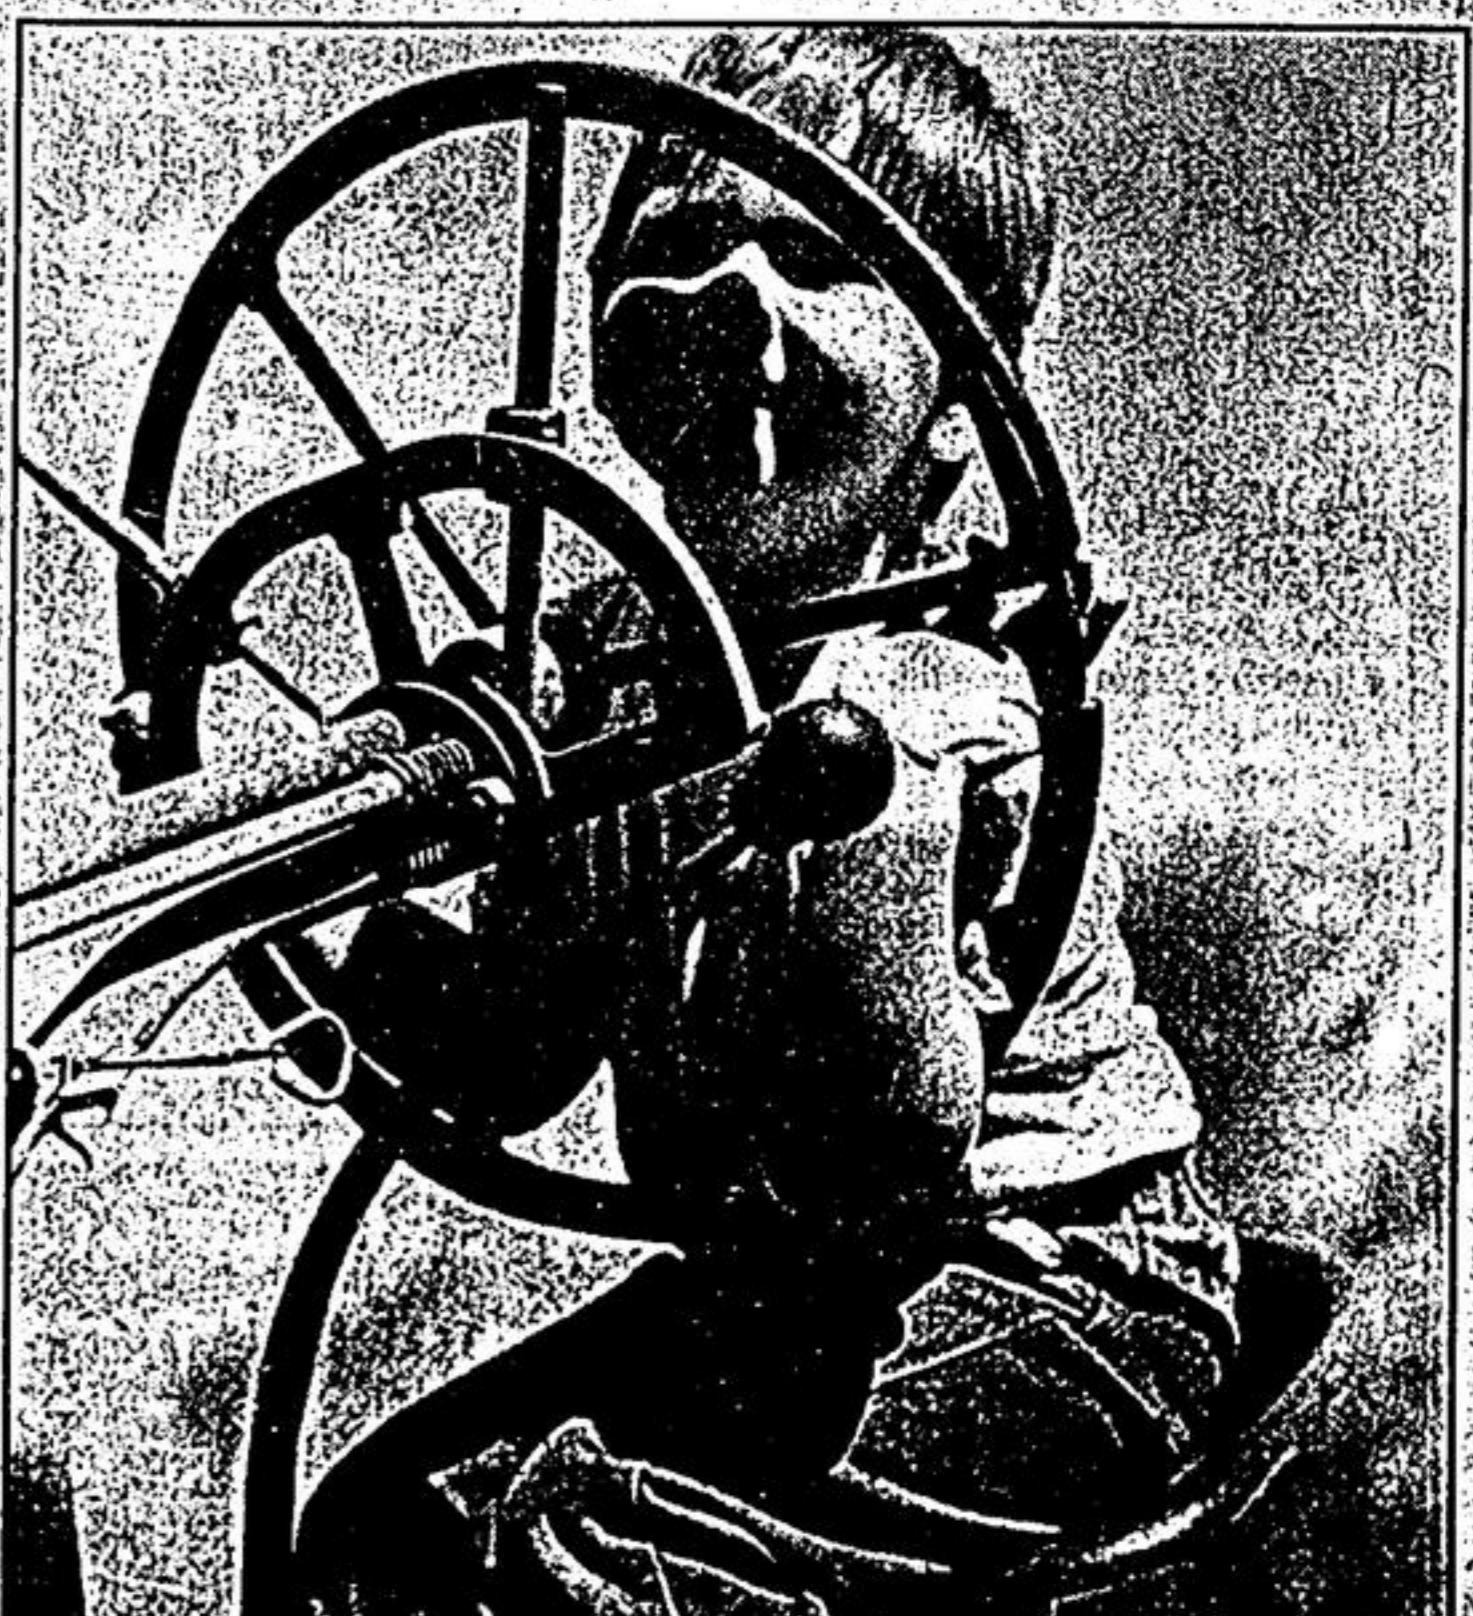

The approach is very positive, she explained.

Doreen Chee said club activities extend year-round. Cost of registration is five dollars.

"Toc Alpha is more than being opposed to drugs and alcohol," Jane stated. Alternatives are offered, she said.

Mr. Roche stressed the fact a Toc Alpha club is needed in Whitchurch-Stouffville.

"This is your world," he told the students. "You can make of it what you want. We feel this is a good place to start."

"Just call me Farmer John"

Many farmers (and would-be farmers) attended the auction sale Friday, on the property of Bruce Davidson, Ninth Line South and 19th Avenue, Markham. Three-year-old Michael Cierwinski is possibly a future farmer. He fell right at home behind the wheel of a Davidson farm tractor.
