Women's Institute is active

By MARJORIE WOODLAND
FOURTH LINE — Members of Goodwood Women's Institute will visit the museum near Brougham on Monday, July 21. This outing is in place of the regular monthly meeting. Plans have been made to gather in the park at 10 a.m. A call is also scheduled at Gallery Brougham, where the work of Goodwood-raised wildlife artist Marc Barrie is on display.

Wedding bells were ringing on the Fourth Line Saturday for Kim Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Graham, and Wayne Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Turner. The pretty lawn ceremony was performed by Rev. Edith Ann McManiman. The bride's attendants were Mrs. Terry Turner, sister-in-law of the groom; Stacy Thorn, sister of the bride; and Darlene Webster. Dale Turner served as his brother's best man. A reception was also held under sunny skies on the tastefully-decorated lawn.

The weather seems to be somewhat settled at last — hopefully for making hay — however it's also holiday time. But there's a time for everything. Now I'll share a little poem I wrote last summer.

Holiday Time
"Where do you think that we should go?"
Discuss hubby and wife as they sit and so;
They talk of plans for a holiday.
It's time for a change from making hay.
They watch the stream of traffic pass,
as frustrated motorists push down on the gas
In search of a peaceful place to rest or a spot to watch a grim contest.
Maybe to realize a happy dream,
or fishing go to a quiet stream.
Their choice may be a camping trip
or to sail away on a cruising ship.
But I really think it's hard to beat the comfort of home and garden seat.
Enjoying the fragrant, summer breeze
'Neath the cool green shade of tall maple trees.

Raise funds for charity

BROUGHAM — Promoter Rick Johnson expects his 10th annual County Jamboree will boost the event's overall fund-raising total above the $25,000 mark.

Mr. Johnson said a variety of charities — including the Canadian Cleft Lip and Palate Family Association — have benefited from about $20,000 in jamboree donations between 1977 to 1985.

The three-day festival, set for July 18-20 on a Brock Road site just north of Brougham, features more than 20 Canadian country music bands, a talent search competition, bikini contest and a $1,500 charity slow pitch ball tournament.

For ticket information contact Mr. Johnson at 649-2295.
