

"Girl Next Door"

Cares and shares

By JIM THOMAS
WHITCHURCH — Seventeen-year-old Wendy Williams, St. John's Sideroad, Whitchurch-Stouffville, has a heart bigger than a pumpkin.

This unselfish, Grade 12 student, G.W. Williams, Secondary School, is giving her savings in support of a child in Haiti.

Wendy's our "Girl Next Door."

The project all started after Wendy and boyfriend, Chris Toole of Vandorf Road, visited Haiti in a program sponsored by Habitat for Humanity and Wesley United Church.

"They couldn't believe the poverty. It made me feel like I had too much," Wendy said.

Each month, she and Chris send eighteen dollars, ($9 each), to the family of their adopted girl. They feel good about it.

"It's something I've wanted to do for a long time," explains Wendy. "Some day she hopes to return to Haiti and perhaps meet her new found friend."

She's also anxious for more people to learn about the program.

A graduate of Whitchurch-Highlands School, Wendy's the daughter of Lindon and Dona Williams. She has a brother, Roger, 20.

An extremely active girl, Wendy's working towards her provincial honors (12 projects) in the Pine Orchard 4-H Club. She was the catcher this summer with the Vandorf football team sponsored by Wesley Restaurant on Woodbine Avenue.

She has her Grade 7 piano and works part-time at Fabricland in Newmarket.

She's a member in the congregation of Wesley United Church.

Wendy loves softball, so much she even attended practices with one hand in a cast. She broke a finger last summer during a play at the plate.

called her safe," she said with a smile.

"She recovered sufficiently to finish the season."

Wendy acquired the job at Fabricland after seeing a "Help Wanted" sign in the door. The manager was once a 4-H leader and that helped," she said. She enjoys it there.

She also enjoys drama at Williams. She played a lead role in Peter Pan, (the part of Wendy of course) two years ago, and last year, directed the play Tom Sawyer.

French and Art are favorite subjects.

Wendy also enjoys music. In addition to piano, she can pick out a tune on the guitar. At Whitchurch-Highlands, she played the clarinet.

Last January, she sang in a musical at St. Andrew's College, Aurora. She's also sung on several special occasions at church.

Student fall fashions show variety of tastes

STOUFFVILLE — What's the popular apparel at Stouffville High?

What's the student fashion trend this fall?

To find out, I spent an hour recently talking with students, both girls and boys, Grade 9 through 13.

My conclusion? There isn't any. As Lisa Fockler put it: "There's a lot of everything. Each student is his or her own person."

That, in a nutshell, pretty well sums up the fashion scene at S.D.S.S. — a lot of everything.

Lisa herself was nattily dressed in white stirrup pants and dark blouse. But, like she said, each is his or her own person.

Skirts, she explained, range from minis to ankle-length. Jean jackets are 'in,' said Lisa, also work socks. Popular colors are greens, blacks and purples.

Tammy Wittred, 16, was colorfully attired in a bright yellow jump suit with black, ankle-high boots. Checkered pants are popular, Tammy said. Most skirts are ankle-length.

"Things are picking up," replied Kerrie Tulette of Grade 13. Jeans, she said, are still being worn, but mostly the dressy kind. "Some of the boys are even wearing ties," she noted. Kerrie was attractive in an eye-catching blue knitted skirt with an acrylic top.

"Skirts are being worn a lot more," said Jenny Pritzker of Grade 10. The lengths, she said, range from very short to very long.

Both skirts and jeans are popular, including short jean skirts, said Diana White of Grade 11. Diana was wearing a comfortable powder-blue track suit and jean jacket when interviewed in the hall.

"Practically anything," replied Lisa Buchanan of Grade 10, when asked what's popular this fall. She added to the color range with yellows, pinks and blues.

Maureen Verhoog said bulky sweaters are being seen more and more, "a lot of loose clothing," as she described it. Maureen was lovely in a black sweater with decorative pink butterflies, matching pink socks and dress shoes.

Guy Cowan of Grade 11 said bright colors are not uncommon with boys too. Faded (new) jeans are popular, also jean jackets, he said.

Jane White of Grade 12 said there are a lot of greens and purples around the school this fall. She noted also the varying skirt lengths, from minis to ankle-length.

Alwyn Rose of Grade 13 summed up his personal preference this way: "I wear whatever I can grab."
