Personal touch offered by Stouffville car dealer

The personal touch is something that Stouffville's Neil Patrick Motors has been giving its customers and the community since it opened back in June of 1955, says General Manager Ken Patrick.

"All our people, from the body shop to the sales staff are always willing to answer any questions a customer might have about his car," said Mr. Patrick.

He also says that customers are welcome, if they wish, to watch work being done to their cars and ask questions about the work being done to it.

The personal touch extends to all of Neil Patrick Motor's customers says Mr. Patrick. "Every customer, whether he's buying a $6,000 car or a $125,000 truck, can expect the same level of service."

SPECIAL FEATURES

Neil Patrick Motors has a number of special service features that are designed with the customers convenience in mind.

People having repair work done to their car can have it picked up and delivered back to them at no extra charge. Service bays are currently open two evenings a week, on Tuesday and Thursday nights for people who can't afford to be without their car during the day.

Free estimates for both mechanical and body repair can be provided at no cost upon request and they stick to them. If a mechanic discovers an unforeseen problem, the extra work will only be done after the customer's authorization has been obtained.

This is just part of the personal touch that has been keeping area customers happy for over 30 years.
