High News

From wine and white to black and orange

By JEFF CARNEY
S.D.S.S. Reporter
It was Friday, Oct. 31. The wind was unusually cold and the sky unusually bright as your S.D.S.S. reporter strolled leisurely to Stouffville's Institute of Higher Learning, better known as the High School.

With thoughts predominated by imminent dentist appointments and other unpleasanties, I made my way unobtrusively to the school's office where the daily ritual of 'signing in' takes place. As the door opened and I stood behind the large desk, what should my eyes behold? I saw orange and black streamers EVERYWHERE! My principal was looking extremely dapper in a tuxedo, with a shockingly orange cumberbund and bow tie. My favorite secretary was smothered beneath a mountain of black and orange balloons, while my distinguished English teacher was resplendent in black slacks, matching sport coat and an uncharacteristically loud fluorescent orange turtleneck. It was definitely a sight to behold.

Silence descended upon the disguised office as all eyes indignantly turned to yours truly — dressed in blue jeans and a yellow sweater.

"I don't own orange," I offered lamely, trying to hide the fact I FORGOT about Black and Orange Spirit Day.

I, however, was a distinct minority as Black and Orange abounded everywhere — orange shoes, orange socks, orange sweaters, orange shirts, even orange hair! There were black pants, black shirts, black stockings, black jackets and even black lipstick!

Hallowe'en had undeniably arrived at S.D.S.S., and to celebrate this yearly phenomenon, the Student Council held — you guessed it, a Hallowe'en dance.

Costumes were original and artistic as students dressed for the occasion. The dance was well attended and very orderly. It was a huge success.

"It was a hairy-scary, super-duper, breathtakingly amazing dance," laughed Ken-doll Craig Thompson. "People were rowdy and loud, but no one pulled any stupid Hallowe'en pranks. It was fun."

And Craig wasn't the only person laughing. Students were relieved to have survived the 'Mini-Examination Week' as mid-term reports are distributed next Friday.

Will S.D.S.S. be laughing next week? Stay tuned.

Respected for her courage

By EVELYN MILSTED GORMLEY — Sympathy of the community is extended to the family of Mrs. Gertie Baycroft, who for many years resided in the Gormley area before moving to Aurora. Mrs. Baycroft passed away Oct. 29 at Providence Villa following a courageous fight against cancer. Surviving is a daughter, Dorothy Smith of Newmarket; a son, Robert of Nakina; four grandchildren and one great-grandson. Service was held Saturday from the Thompson Funeral Home, Aurora.

A special service will be held at 11 a.m., Sunday (Nov. 9), in Victoria Square United Church to dedicate a stained glass window in memory of the Glover Family. The window is a gift to the church from Mrs. Lawson Mumberson. Glen Smith remains a patient in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, following surgery on his back. The congregation of Gormley Missionary Church will celebrate its anniversary with special services this Sunday (Nov. 9), at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Rev. Ivan Preston of the Missionary Church in Oakville will be the guest speaker. Rev. and Mrs. Preston will provide the special music. Ivan was born and raised at Bethesda, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burn Preston.
