

RCMP squad blasts house during test

Explosives make quick work of old structure

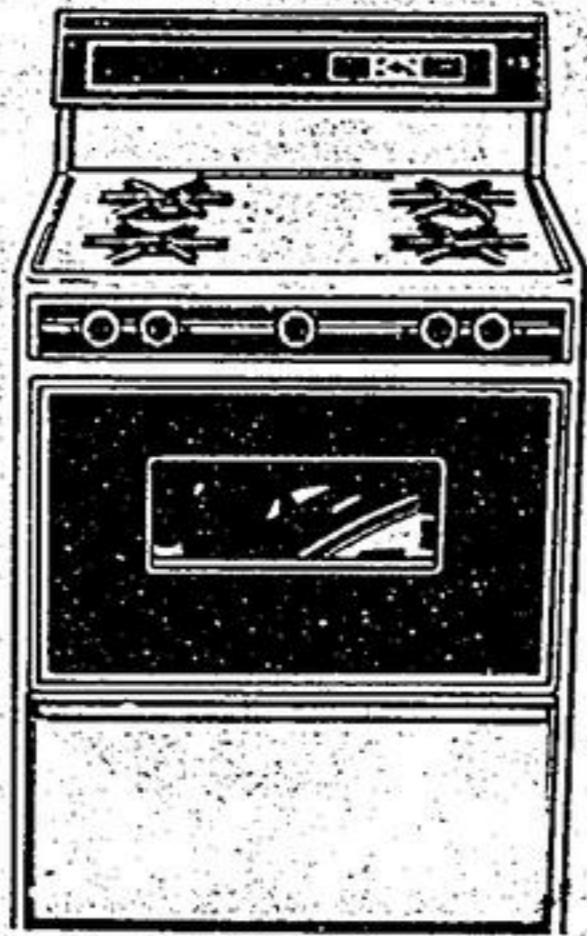

The RCMP's Special Emergency Response Team (SERT) joined with local force's Thursday for explosive testing on federally-owned property south of Stouffville. Pictured above and below is the aftermath of exercises conducted at a condemned residence located on 19th Avenue, east of the 9th Line. The RCMP unit is trained to resolve situations involving terrorists and acts of hostage-taking. One area resident said Thursday's blasts reminded her of raids common during the second World War.

A Neglected Furnace Can Be Dangerous.

The best way to ensure that your furnace is safe is to have it checked periodically by a registered heating contractor. A quick check can reveal small problems, before they become large problems.

A blocked chimney or faulty furnace can cause serious health problems and even death by allowing carbon monoxide gas to spill into your home. Also, if there isn't sufficient household air for proper furnace combustion, exhaust gases may be prevented from rising up the chimney, and leak back into your home. This can occur when the fireplace, kitchen fan or other air exhausting appliances are operated in a home.

If you're a homeowner, it's your responsibility to see that your furnace is properly maintained. A safe furnace makes your home a healthier place to be.

For more information, contact your natural gas, oil, or propane supplier. Or, phone a registered heating contractor near you.
