CANADIANS ARE RETIRING EARLIER, LIVING LONGER:

Will You Retire Rich?

You can retire a multi-millionaire with the right RRSP investment plan. All RRSP's are not created equal. In fact, there's an incredible difference. Many Canadians lock up their RRSP's sitting in the bank or in trust companies (GIC's) at low rates of return. Growth is discouragingly slow.

When you contribute each year to a professionally managed investment fund - such as the highly-rated Bolton Tremblay Canada Cumulative Fund - you enjoy the tax and reinvestment benefits, plus vigorous growth. A $3,500 annual contribution starting at age 30 could grow to 2.6 billion dollars by age 60 at 17% average compound growth. Although past performance does not guarantee future growth, several Bolton Tremblay funds have achieved 17% or better over 10 years (Financial Times, July 31, '86).
