

Final 'assignment' for Journalism grad

By JIM THOMAS
Denise McDonald is coming home. On Wednesday, (today), the 21-year-old placement student from Scarborough Centennial College begins a 15-week stay at The Tribune. It's her final 'assignment' prior to graduation.

Centennial, under the tutelage of John Lott, spans three years. Whitchurch-Stouffville is by no means strange territory to Denise. In fact, she actually 'grew up' here, attending Summitview Public School from Grade 5 through Grade 8 and Stouffville Dist. Secondary School from Grade 9 through Grade 12. Her parents and sister Meredith, now 19, lived on Thicketwood Boulevard and later Clarke Street. Meredith is currently enrolled at Seneca College. Denise has always been interested in writing. She calls it hereditary. However, it was Jim Rehill, English teacher on the staff at S.D.S.S. that convinced her to make journalism a career. She's glad she did. Feature writing gives Denise the greatest satisfaction, "but I'll cover anything," she says, "including sports."

An avid equestrienne, Denise hopes to follow the riding school circuit during her placement here, even taking part in several competitions. Her horse, 'Baron', is stabled at Aintree Farm, Warden Avenue and Vivian Sideroad, R.R. 3, Newmarket. Denise says she's looking forward to putting her three years of college training into practice at The Tribune. And so are we.

Denise McDonald, formerly of Stouffville, is joining the staff of The Tribune as a 15-week placement student out of Scarborough Centennial College. Denise attended Summitview Public School and Stouffville High before enrolling in the three-year Journalism course at Centennial. She'll graduate this spring. —Jim Thomas
