

Police carry torch

The final numbers are still being tallied, but a York Regional Police spokesman says the first Special Olympics torch run was a success.

Constable Gary McBrien estimates police runners raised about $11,000 in pledges for a torch relay to raise money for mentally handicapped athletes.

York Regional Police officers picked up the torch in Bradford and ran with it to Steeles Ave., where Metro Police officers carried it down to Varsity Stadium in Toronto.

Approximately 80 York Regional police officers ran in the torch relay. Close to 1,000 officers took part in various relays from Kitchener to Ottawa.

"It was very successful for the first year," said Constable McBrien, who added that provincial fund organizers managed to surpass their goal of $60,000.
