Bonnets featured at Fair

By LARRY RAINEY
Fifty Years Ago This Week
(from the pages of the Economist and Sun, Sept. 30, 1937)
Notes and Comments

New bonnets are always a feature at Markham Fair, and the ladies of the district know how to wear them.

A big improvement will be seen in the Fairgrounds and with a seat in the grandstand for the small sum of 15 cents everybody may be comfortable.

Back Issues

Larry Rainey

Much will now depend on the weatherman who to a large extent holds the destiny of the Fair in his hands, if not so much from a financial standpoint, certainly in the matter of enjoyment, which after all should rank first as the real objective of the fair.

Chicken Supper Season Approaching Once more the season is swinging around to the time when one may write a reasonable comment on Chicken Pie Suppers and such-like.

Chicken pie suppers have been discussed from almost every possible angle. It has been pointed out that they attract people from all over the countryside to a most friendly gathering.

They serve the purpose of raising money for the church, a purpose of which you may approve or disapprove. They serve the purpose of showing off in a sure and certain way the culinary abilities of the housewives, but now how about discussing chicken pie suppers from the angle of the capacity of some people to shall we say endure them.

You may recall attending one of these events, possibly only a year ago and having to wait your turn to eat by standing behind a man, until he had completed his meal.

The fashion is to hold on to the chair, or suffer a longer wait if someone should grab the seat before you get it.

Possibly as you stood there you were interested in the capacity of your friend in the chair ahead. Your own insides were just about at the breaking point. The odour of delicious pies, and the sight of the heavily laden tables, was a sight to provide an appetite for the worst type of dyspeptic.
