

'Twilight Zone'

By BRUCE STAPLEY
No, the burial ground at Conc. 6 and the Stouffville Road hasn't been hit by grave-robbers, or vandals.

The activity in the cemetery at Springvale Baptist Church involves the restoration of more than 20 age-old tombstones that have 'fallen' on hard times.

"Yes, I guess it looks like the Twilight Zone out there," observes Springvale pastor, Rev. Bob Flemming, "but we thought we should restore the markers to decency."

Local contractor Brian Emery is heading up the work that includes the re-pouring of footings for stones that have been ravaged by frost through the years.

Jack Wilkinson, cemetery secretary explains methods used for tombstone installation in days gone by weren't quite as thorough as today. "They should be good for another 100 years now," he said.

Mr. Wilkinson also pointed out that it is often the unkempt cemeteries that are vandalized. By keeping the markers in a good state of repair, this is far less likely to happen, he concluded.

Crafty young lady

Residents of Blue Spruce Estates, Vandorf, displayed their skills, Saturday, with a craft show and sale in the Vandorf Community Hall. This crafty little lady, showing her handwork is 11-year-old Monika Smilovsky, niece of Peter, and Cynthia Smilovsky, Wilmac Court, Vandorf.
