Helen Driediger of Padeburn, Germany is a welcomed addition to the staff of Stouffville's Care and Share Shoppe. Her presence adds a cosmopolitan flavor to the downtown business community. — Jim Thomas

By JIM THOMAS
STOUFFVILLE — The Care and Share Shoppe, 39 Main Street West, Stouffville, adds a cosmopolitan flavor to the downtown business area.

The latest 'ingredient' is Helen Driediger from Padeburn, Germany.

Helen, along with 90 other young people arrived in Canada Aug. 8. They'll be here one year.

Helen's first posting was in Kitchener, then Stouffville. Her home away from home is Testa Villa Apartments, Albert Street North.

Helen's enjoying her stay. "The people are very friendly, and Ontario is very beautiful," she says. She hopes to see more of the province before moving on in February.

Helen loves to travel. Born in Russia, this personable 22-year-old speaks three languages fluently, including English.

Canada's not new to Helen. In 1981, she, her parents and brother Eduard were visitors here.

By co-incidence, a second person in the group comes from Helen's home town. Anna Berg, presently working near Vancouver, hopes to visit Stouffville for a week this fall.

While Helen's church association is Baptist, she's attended various denominational services in the area. Quite often, people invite her to their homes on weekends. She appreciates this.

Hobbies include — reading, walking, knitting, baking and travelling. Some day she hopes to visit Australia, The Philippines and parts of Asia.

Helen has found the adjustment easy. She sees no major differences between the two countries. A main reason for coming here, Helen says, was to improve her use of the English language. She's already accomplished this goal.
