

Weekender

Children's Page

Book fair provides reading bonanza

SUMMITVIEW

Food for the minds of budding young geniuses

On November 23 to 26, Summitview Public School held its annual fall Book Fair, featuring hundreds of all-new paperbacks in the school's library facilities. Although parents and the general community were invited to attend, it was students of all grades who had the field day rummaging through piles of their favorite mysteries to the newest edition of connect the dots. One student, Casey Redquest, of Success Square Apartments, (top left) appears to be dreaming of the time when his Mom or Dad will read this book to him at bedtime, while Kelly McVittie and Lisa Forsyth, both 6's (bottom left) can't seem to make up their minds which books they want. However, 10th line resident Sherry Heise, 6's (above) solved that problem, she took them all.

Denise McDonald

Photos by
Denise McDonald