

Pageant seeks entrants

Claremont is searching for a high school student to represent the North Pickering hamlet during its Sesquicentennial year.

Miss Sesquicentennial will be selected at a pageant set for Claremont Community Centre on Friday, Jan. 15. The event is open to the public beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Contestants must be of high school age and live in Claremont or on a surrounding rural route. Judging will be based on poise, knowledge of local history and public speaking ability. As well, each girl is required to write a short story about family history in keeping with the pageant's Sesquicentennial (150th birthday) theme.

The contest winner will receive about $500 in prizes, and become Claremont's official representative during the fifth annual Winter Carnival (Jan. 27 to 31) and at birthday celebrations in June.

Interested contestants should apply to Lynn Winterstein (649-2950) or Andrea Graham (649-2604) by Jan. 9.

suddenly on Christmas day. The funeral was held at O'Neill Funeral Parlor on Monday with interment in Goodwood Cemetery.

Marvin Maye has returned to Orchard Villa Retirement Home in Pickering after a session in the Ajax-Pickering Hospital. He enjoyed a visit earlier from the three Staley brothers who were close neighbors in their younger years. While Eldon was visiting from Victoria, B.C., George and Arthur live closer to their native Goodwood.

Visiting with her sister, Mabel, of Toronto for the holiday season, Miss Olive Shell will be returning shortly to her field of service with the Wycliffe Bible Translators. She is living in Dallas, Texas at the present time.

It was encouraging to hear the United Church was packed for the Christmas Eve Candlelight service and cantata. The inspirational evening was most impressive in the soft lighting of early years.

A New Year's Eve watch night service was held at the Baptist Church as children, teenagers, and oldsters met together in a 'family night' to usher in the New Year with games, fellowship and worship.

Although 1988 is now well begun, my New Year's resolution is not even started. I resolved to write more letters. How are you doing on yours? Maybe this little poem will help us:

One ship drives east and another west,
With the self-same winds that blow,
'Tis the set of the sails and not the gales,
Which decides the way to go.

Like the winds of the sea are the ways of fate,
As we voyage along through life,
'Tis the will of the soul that decides the goal
And not the calm or the strife.
