

New cleaners boasts a staff of experience

By JIM THOMAS
STOUFFVILLE — Novaz Keshavjee, owner-operator of Stouffville Cleaners, has surrounded himself with experience.

For example, Paul Pynkosky of Church Street, Markham, has literally 'grown up' in the dry-cleaning business.

His association with the profession dates back to 1949.

"I've been with it all my life, there's nothing I don't know," he states assuredly.

Paul brushed up on the finer points of dry-cleaning by attending a 16-week course at the Dry Cleaning Institute in Silver Springs, Maryland.

He joined the Stouffville firm in May.

Gina Maspos commutes to Stouffville daily from Keswick. She's been associated with dry-cleaning since 1964. At Stouffville Cleaners, her specialty is ladies wear.

Shirley Williamson formerly of Stouffville was on the staff of Walker's Cleaners and remained when the ownership changed. Her business experience takes in almost eight years. Shirley, mother of two, now resides at Caesarea near Port Perry.

Ron Stroud classes himself as semi-retired. He came on staff last September. Customer service is his department. Ron lives in Stouffville.

Mr. Keshavjee is a native of South Africa but spent 27 years in London, England where he learned the dry-cleaning trade. He, wife Jasmin and family Aleya, 4, and Rashid, five months, reside on Percy Lane, south of Sunset Boulevard, Stouffville.

"I grew tired of living in the big city," Navaz says, "I longed for the small town."

Navaz says he's not sorry he chose Stouffville. "The customers are absolutely wonderful," he claims.

On a regular day, it's not unusual to handle up to 100 items, Mr. Keshavjee says. Carpet and upholstery cleaning are part of their service also.

Stouffville Cleaners prides itself on same-day service; even one hour in an emergency. As an aid to commuters, store hours are 6:30 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Wednesday and 6:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., Thursday through Saturday.

The location is adjacent to the A&P, beside 1001 Variety.
